LONDON AIR-MAIL LETTER

To Love Freedom And Liberty: Pickled
Rose-Buds: Italy's New Kingdom: Miss
Patricia Wake: "A Fence And Ditch
Country": Scots Use More Water:

(Special Air Mail Letter)

London April 21.
"Queen" Mariangela, who has just died at the age of 93, was the absolute monarch of the smallest kingdom in Europe—perhaps in the world. This was Tivoli, a rocky islet of a few hundred acres off the east coast of Sardinia.

She inherited her kingdom from King Paulo, her father, who owed his sovereignty to Charles Albert, king of Sardinia, an ancestor of the present King of Italy.

One morning in the early 19th century Charles Albert landed on the islet for a day's shooting and found Paulo minding his flock of goats.

"How many inhabitants are there?" he asked.
"I and my family," was the answer.

The King laughed. "Then I will make you king of the island," he said, and proceeded to do so.

He sent for a Royal ensign from his boat, had it hoisted over Paulo's modest dwelling, and presented him with a gold watch and a magnificent coat of arms. The ensign still hangs over the front door.

Paulo's sons died before him, and Queen Mariangela never married. Her nephews will not inherit her kingdom, which is to pass to Italy.

AN ANCIENT FAMILY
Miss Patricia Wake, the 14-year-old daughter of Major-General Sir Hereward Wake, has, I see, been extensively photographed in the act of falling at the water jump at the Grafton Hunt trials.

This must be a rare occurrence, for, like her father and her six brothers and sisters, she is a born rider. The big stables at Courteenhall, their Northamptonshire house, which were built in the eighteenth century and are charming examples of the architect's skill in that spacious age, are always filled with horses.

Last summer Lord Raglan claimed to have "debunked" Sir Hereward Wake's claim to descent from Hereward the Wake. That is a matter for the genealogists to quarrel over. What is certain is that there are tombs of the Wakes in St. Peter's Church in the grounds of Courteenhall, going back to the twelfth and thirteenth centuries.

PICCADILLY COVERTS
Major Smith Bosanquet, whose house at Brookbourne has been burgled, is London's own M.F.H. His country extends from near Hertford to Barnet, Kingston, Richmond, Bromley and Greenwich, and thus includes the whole of London.

Major Smith Bosanquet does not, however, appear to envisage hunting St. James' Park or drawing the Piccadilly coverts. The official description of the Hunt's country states that it is "a fence and ditch country, with much woodland on one side, the remainder open grass country. Very little wire. A well-bred hunter is most suitable."

THE GREATEST WATER-USERS
The Scots do use more water. Statistics bear out Mr. J. H. McKie's statement in the House of Commons.

The five towns having the highest consumption in Great Britain are all Scottish. Helensburgh is the most prodigious consumer of water. Its inhabitants use over 70 gallons per head per day.

On the other hand, Aberdeen splendidly maintains its reputation for thrift, with Scotland's lowest water consumption of only 25.24 gallons.

The room on the first floor in which the little Princess was born is one of the least ornate of all the rooms, but also one of the sunniest. The great rooms are now subdivided into official departments, and a public office entrance is being built in the hall.

MARSHAL OF DIPLOMATIC CORPS

It was learned that Major-General Sir John Hanbury-Williams, who has been Marshal of the Diplomatic Corps since 1920, intends to retire on October 19, when he will celebrate his 75th birthday.

Sir John will be officiating at each of the forthcoming Courts and also at the Buckingham Palace garden party in July, but these will probably be his last official functions.

Sir John is one of the best-known figures at Court and a valued friend of the King. Sir John has been decorated for his services by Governments all over the world. During the Russian revolution he was the secret adviser and friend of the Czar. In 1928 his son John, married Princess Zenaida Cantacuzene, daughter of Prince Cantacuzene, A.D.C. to the Grand Duke Nicholas during the war.

Sir John, who is remarkably active for his age, is a very keen hunter and is fond of shooting.

FIRST-CLASS FIGHTING MAN

Colonel Harold Alexander, who sailed to-day for India to command a brigade of one British and three Indian battalions at Nowshera, in the North-west Province, was known during the war as Brusiloff, on account of an alleged resemblance to that ground.

In the Great War he commanded a battalion at the age of 25, went over the top 30 times, and gained an M.C., D.S.O. and Legion of Honour.

After the Armistice he ran a nondescript army against the Bolsheviks in the Baltic States and Finland. Eight years ago he was appointed to command the Irish Guards at the age of 35.

Eight Brilliant Runs

Colonel Alexander has an iron nerve and a complete lack of self-consciousness.

The lack of self-consciousness helped in Turkey, where he won the affection of the Turks by dancing an Irish jig.

The iron nerve made its first public appearance in the famous Eton and Harrow match of 1910, when Harrow went in in their last innings with only 55 to make and were skittled out by Fowler.

Alexander, played for his bowling, went in last for Harrow when nine Harrow wickets were down for 30 and all seemed over. With Mr. O. B. Graham he put on 15 runs for the last wicket and nearly pulled off a forlorn hope.

His eight runs, collected more by courage than by skill, was the second top score in that disastrous innings.

MR. MORRISON AND GERMANY.

Mr. Herbert Morrison publicly stated during the week-end that "It is the duty of all British citizens who love freedom and liberty to boycott German goods and services" as a protest against the Hitler regime.

It is a deplorable thing that a man in Mr. Morrison's position should be guilty of such utterances. He has no right to expound these views. By doing so he abuses the trust of the citizens of London who elected him to lead their municipal administration.

The vast majority of those who put the Socialists in power on the L.C.C. want Britain to live at peace with her neighbours, pursuing normal friendly relations.

The application of tariffs or quotas on the goods of another country is a legitimate trading measure; the application of a boycott is a hostile act.

The leader of the L.C.C. is a powerful man, but he must not be allowed to declare war on Germany.

SPECIAL LOW FARES TO TSINGTAO

D.K.K. Extend Excursion Rates To Dairen

The Dairen Kisen Kaisha announce the resumption shortly of their summer excursion trips to Tsingtao, and return, by their well known ships the Dairen Maru, Hosen Maru and Tsingtao Maru. The special service will start from June 15 and will be continued to September 15.

These special excursion voyages were inaugurated last year with one steamer assigned to the round trip voyage. An extension has been decided on this year and their whole service speeded up to allow the three steamers to make the round trip to Dairen, via Tsingtao, and return, with sailings every other day. During the first two weeks of August, however, the normal sailings of one, very three days will be in force.

This extension of the excursion rates to Dairen, coupled with the favourable exchange rate on Japanese currency, will be of great interest to all those who wish to avail themselves of the chance to visit Manchoukuo during their summer vacation.

Special round-trip fares from Shanghai to Tsingtao and return have been announced by the company as follows: 1st Class, $90, 2nd Class $60 and 3rd Class $22.10. The tickets will be available for 90 days with the proviso that return embarkation shall not be later than October 15.

LIQUOR QUOTAS LIFTED

U.S. Producers Cannot Meet Demand

Washington, April 28. For the second time since the end of prohibition, the United States is forced to open wide the flood-gates in order to permit the unrestricted flow of foreign liquor into America.

This action was announced today by the Federal Alcohol Administration which explained that American liquor producers are not yet in a position to satisfy the thirst of the American people. All liquor quotas will be lifted for four months, starting on May 1.

Beer, whisky and cocktails, it was indicated, are the most popular forms of alcoholic beverage with the American people to-day although red and sparkling wines as well as Champagne are coming more and more in demand.

Although bar-tenders are working over-time in all parts of the country and cocktail parties are on the boom, press reports indicate that there has been a steady falling off of inebriety. In some quarters this has been attributed to the fact that bootleg liquor was more potent than the legitimate brands now being absorbed while others contend that the thirst of post-prohibition days is more disciplined than that of the Volstead era.

To-day's announcement follows yesterday's publication of the liquor revenues for March which totalled U.S. $28,320,923, establishing drinking as one of the four financial pillars on which Pres. Roosevelt's recovery programme rests.—United Press.

ACETYLENE WELDING

The eleventh International Congress of Acetylene, Oxy-Acetylene Welding and Allied Industries will be held in Rome June 5 to June 10. The first congress of the series was held in Berlin in 1898, and the tenth in Zurich in 1930. The work of the Congress is divided into five sections, the first of which deals with the production of calcium carbide, acetylene and oxygen; the second with the technique and applications of oxy-acetylene welding and cutting; the third with technical instruction and research work; the fourth with welding processes in general; and the fifth with various applications, including lighting, heating and motive power.

The languages employed at the Congress will be English, French, German and Italian. Messrs. National Tours, Limited, travel agents, Palace Chambers, Bridge-street, Westminster, London S.W.1, have worked out a detailed itinerary for persons intending to proceed to Rome for the Congress, and further particulars of this may be obtained from them.—En-

KULING BRITISH SCHOOL

New Institution
Opening In Autumn

Shanghai, May 1. The opening shortly of a new school in Kuling, to be called the Kuling British School, has been announced recently. It will be a co-educational school on the best British lines for the education and special training of British and other foreign children.

The headmaster of the new school, Mr. H. R. Dixon, M.C., B.Sc. (Glasgow), will be remembered by many in Shanghai for his activities here and more especially for his special work in the rock demolition work in the south channel of the Kunglingtan Rapids of the Upper Yangtze. Mrs. Dixon will be the headmistress of the school and in addition there will be a staff of five including the Lady Resident, Mrs. Ruck.

The school will be housed in buildings especially built for school purposes by the Redcroft Investment Co., Ltd., of Hong Kong and the advance prospectus outlines the very complete arrangements which are being made for the pupils.

Being a boarding school primarily there is accommodation in the residences for 80 pupils at present, with ample room for extension.

The advantages of Kuling for a school of this nature are well-known to the majority of residents in this part of China. Situated close to the Yangtze but with an elevation of more than 3,000 feet, it is famous as a health resort. Its climate is considered to be similar to but milder than that of Switzerland. There are no vehicles whatever in the settlement but every opportunity for walking, swimming, tobogganing, nature and geological studies and games.

With regard to the objects of the School, the prospectus states:

"The curriculum has been very carefully prepared and the staff selected to meet the following special requirements:—
Preparatory.—(For children from 6 to 12 years). A thorough grounding in all the subjects usually taught to boys and girls in the best British Preparatory Schools.

Junior.—(For pupils from 12 to 16). The requirements of the Junior Examination of the University of Cambridge.

Tutorial.—(For older pupils).

(a) The requirements of the London University Matriculation examination.
(b) Entrance examinations for other Universities.
(c) Special training for entry into Commerce, Engineering and Industry, Domestic Science and Art."

Considerable support has already been given to the project and the following have agreed to act as Patrons or Governors.
Sir Meyrick Hewlett, K.C.M.G., H.M. Consul-General in Hankow, Mr. C. Healey, superintendent of Education of the Shanghai Municipal Council, Mr. A. de C. Sowerby, Editor of the "China Journal," Mr. C. D. Dixon, President of the British Chamber of Commerce in Hankow, Mr. A. Morton-Smith of the Asiatic Petroleum Company, Kluang, Mr. F. W. Poate of Mackenzie & Co., Ltd., Shanghai, Mr. J. L. Duff and Mr. J. Berkin.

The prospectus outlines special activities in addition to the regular school curriculum as follows:

"Miniature rifle shooting (Target only) can be practised under staff supervision.

"Model making and carpentry is arranged for the older boys, and every opportunity is afforded them to see and assist in the supervision of building and minor engineering work in Kuling.

"Music and singing is taught under the direction of the Ladies Committee, two of whom are skilled musical instructors.
Open air classes, school walks and camps are arranged in summer.

Lecture and hobby hours are a special feature.
The usual British ceremonies are held on the appropriate days."

The prospectus adds "The School is on a definite Christian basis, and holds its own School service on Sundays. This service is open to parents and visitors, and is usually conducted by the Headmaster. The Service is on the general lines of the best English non-sectarian school services."

"Arrangements are now being completed for the opening of the school for the autumn season, and all persons interested are requested to write to Mr. H. R. Dixon, Kuling British School, Kuling, Ki-

UNITED STATES WORRIED

Over Scheme For
Rubber Restriction

London, May 7. The "Financial News" correspondent from New York says the State Department is showing considerable anxiety over the rubber plan and is attempting to secure American representation on the International Committee. He said the American Ambassador in London and the American Minister at the Hague are conferring with the British and Dutch Governments. It is officially recognised in New York there is need for control of potential over-production, but it is feared the plan will work out along monopolistic lines. It is also felt inadequate assurance is given against future shortages and consequent sharp price advances.

The "Financial Times" correspondent from Amsterdam says it is officially learned the United States is urging an extension of the agreement with the object of fixing a maximum price for the protection of consumers.—Reuter.

EASTERN AIR ROUTES

Ambitions Of The Dutch Airways

Medan, April 21. Something on the lines of the aeronautic dream of the Millennium was sketched by Mr. Plesman, director of the K.L.M., in an interview with pressmen before returning to Europe. He referred to the time when Netherlands India would be within six days reach of Holland, and later four; when night flying would be general; holiday cruises by air would be as regular as they now are by sea; and the starting of a Zepplin service between Europe and the East.

Discussing the possibilities of new "branch lines" along the Dutch air route, Mr. Plesman pointed to the case for the establishment of a link between Java and the Philippines, another to Saigon, and a third to China though this last would be beset with many difficulties. In the Near East a connection to Baghdad Teheran was possible. Mr. Plesman seemed satisfied that the K.L.M. would be given a chance to compete with the British extension of their service to Australia.

Speeding Up
For the speeding up to the K.L.M. service from Holland to Java much depended on the forthcoming trials of new types of planes. They would have to choose between the new Fokker machines, types 22 and 36 and the Douglas aeroplanes. A machine of the Fokker 36 type would be the first to make an experimental flight.

When the time between Holland Java had been reduced to six days flying, Medan might again become a port of call. There would be no question of cutting out Singapore under the new schedule. On the last day machines would fly from Medan to Singapore, Palembang and Batavia.

Firstly the aerodrome at Medan would have to be enlarged and provision made for night-illumination.

He had already discussed a preliminary scheme in this connection.

Mr. Plesman was of the opinion that the K.L.M. service to-day was too slow, too expensive and too uncomfortable. This would be rectified as soon as the new machines were put into service.

The full advantages of aerial travel between Europe and the Far East would not be realised, however, until the time had been limited to four days, and, moreover, a "twice-a-week" service had been inaugurated.

Planes Leaving Daily?

If and when Imperial Airways and the French company followed suit, and planes left for the Far East every day, it could then be said that there was a real service.

Mr. Plesman spoke of the plans of companies other than the K.L.M. and Imperial Airways to connect China with Europe by air. There was under consideration, he said, a line between Germany and Shanghai via Siberia, though the ground organisation in Siberia was in no way complete as yet.

Other interests wished to connect Manila with Hong Kong.

JAPAN'S "HANDS-OFF CHINA" POLICY

DECLARATION BY MR. HU HAN-MIN

Powers Asked To Take
Concerted Action

Canton, April 28. In an outspoken declaration addressed to Great Britain, the United States and Soviet Russia, in connection with the Japanese "Hands-off-China" statement, Mr. Hu Han-min, veteran Party leader, drew attention to the fact that the Japanese Far Eastern policy was aimed at nothing short of complete domination in the Far East and that the interests of these Powers themselves demand concerted action against Japan.

After recalling that he had issued successive statements urging Great Britain, America and Soviet Russia to take concerted action for a solution of the Far Eastern situation, Mr. Hu explained at length how Japanese Imperialistic designs tended to impair the interests of these Powers.

Britain's Position

In the first place, as regards Great Britain, Mr. Hu pointed out that Japanese cotton and other products were making serious inroads in the Indian and Australian markets and that there was no likelihood that the Indo-Japanese Commercial Agreement would ameliorate the situation. Politically, it was an open secret that the Japanese were inciting India and Afghanistan to rebellion against Great Britain and were also secretly subsidizing Siam to be the vanguard in the anti-British movement in the South Pacific. Thus, should Japan succeed in realizing her ambition of dominating China, Great Britain would no longer be in a position to hold her possessions in Asia.

As for the United States, Mr. Hu pointed out that the recent exchange of good-will messages between Japan and America had served only to fan the aggressive ambitions of Japan. This policy on the part of America would ultimately cost her the loss of her large commercial interest in China. The fate of the Philippines Islands would also be sealed, if Japan were allowed to carry out her aggressive designs without restraint.

With reference to Soviet Russia Mr. Hu said that there could not be the slightest doubt that Japan considered her interests to be opposed to those of Russia. In order to safeguard Korea, she believed it necessary to oust Soviet Russia from the Far East, and it was against Russia that her dispositions in Manchuria for the past two years were mainly directed.

Mr. Hu concluded by pointing out that, in order to uphold the sanctity of international treaties as well as to maintain their own interests in the Far East, it behooves the three Powers in question to take concerted action against Japan.—Kuo Min.

OUTLOOK IN CHINA

Sir A. Salter's Report
On His Visit.

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, April 21.

A prophecy that if the more stable political conditions at present prevailing in China are maintained the way should soon be open for marked developments, particularly among those enterprises in which Western nations are interested, was made to Reuter's Agency yesterday by Sir Arthur Salter, the economist, who has just returned from a mission to the Far East.

The general internal political situation, said Sir Arthur, had substantially improved, the struggles of rival war lords had virtually ceased, except in Szechuan and North-western China, and the country had elsewhere a reasonably effective Government, combined with a general and determined desire to get rid of civil war. If the reconciliation between Gen. Chiang Kai-shek and Mr. T. V. Soong resulted in Mr. Soong (who was formerly Minister of Finance) rejoining the Government, said Sir Arthur, the Government should be very strong.

Economically the situation had deteriorated since Sir Arthur Salter's last mission, three years ago, in consequence of sterling, the rupee, and the yen going off gold while silver had risen in relation to foreign currencies, thus bringing about a fall in prices. Nevertheless, there had been much economic reconstruction, roadmaking, and considerable development in the lighter industries. The railway situation was promising.

"As regards the future, there are elements of hope," concluded Sir Arthur, "but there are still certain factors causing anxiety."

Sir Arthur Salter's mission took him to Nanking, Shanghai, and Hongchow, the capital of Chekiang. He has produced an exhaustive general report on the whole mission, which will probably be published in English and Chinese.

Goldwyn Spotted, Constance Bennett At Equity Ball And Signed Her

Sometimes it's the little happenings in life that count the most.

Take Constance Bennett, for instance!

Constance has the star role in "Moulin Rouge," the new 20th Century Picture which United Artists is releasing soon at the Alhambra Theatre.

She is the eldest of three daughters of Richard Bennett, the celebrated actor, was born in New York, and educated in private schools there and in Paris.

After a social debut, Miss Bennett was a popular figure in the younger set of Washington and Baltimore. The thought of becoming a screen celebrity was farthest from her mind.

She was attending an Equity Ball with her father when a Hollywood producer spotted her. He was Samuel Goldwyn.

Goldwyn asked her to take a screen test, liked her screen personality and offered her the title role in "Cytherea" which he was about to produce. She scored an instant success—and thus her future became assured.

This flamboyant blonde star, in accounting for her success, gives full credit to her actor-father, who took a keen interest in her education and served always as mentor and guide.

After appearing in a number of pictures as a free lance, she was given a long term contract by M.G.M. But destiny stepped in again.

She married Philip Plant, the young millionaire, and since he objected to her screen work, she willingly abandoned it, the contract being broken by mutual consent.

The next step in her colorful life was to live as Mrs. Plant, in her Parisian residence, in villas at Biarritz and on the Riviera and in various parts of Europe. Following the inevitable divorce she returned to America and to her first love—the screen.

Constance had "come home" in the deepest sense, and her career since has flowed on as if it had never been interrupted. RKO-Pathe signed her and for them she was appeared in "Rich People," "This Thing Called Love," "Sin Takes a Holiday," "Born to Love," "The Common Law," "Lady With a Past," "What Price Hollywood," "Rock-a-Bye," "Our Betters," "A Bed of Roses" and "Without Glory." For various other companies she has made "Bought," "Common Clay," and "Two Against the World."

"Moulin Rouge," a Joseph M. Schenck-Darryl F. Zanuck presentation directed by Sidney Lanfield, marks her first dual role, the second picture in which she has sung, and the first in which her excellent singing voice has been featured so strongly. In this picture she portrays both a notorious French actress and the wife of a musical comedy author who resembles the actress. This is her first picture for 20th Century.

Has Milady Heard Of Djolop?

ELSTREE ADOPTS NEW DRESS MATERIAL

An entirely new dress material with the distinctive name Djolop is shortly to intrigue the world of feminine fashions.

At the moment it is "so very exclusive," which at once commends it to the Elstree film star.

Miss Wendy Barrie, in the new British International film "Give Me a Ring," is to wear a costume of grey Djolop with sleeves and bodice of grey check Organza.

The coat—or rather coatlet—has a charming wee ruffle round the neck.

For six months at least, Djolop will remain the exclusive property of Norman Hartnell, by whom this costume and some of the other dress worn in "Give Me a Ring" are supplied.

In the same film, which Arthur Woods, B.I.P.'s youngest director, will make, Miss Barrie will wear a beautiful, semi-evening gown of pale pink chiffon with an exaggerated hem of taffeta in a deeper tone around the bottom. The same taffeta is used in a fascinating panel down the entire back of the gown. The neckline is high at the front and finishes in a V at the back. Around the whole neckline is a delicate trimming of shaded pink gardenias.

The peach-like beauty of Miss Barrie's complexion lends a particular charm to delicate shades of pink and a negligee in the same colour has been made for her. This comprises a radiant pink satin gown cut with a positively square neck, over which is worn a wonderfully fine salmon-pink dressing-gown.

TWO FILMS OF THE DUBARRY

Dolores Del Rio to Star in "One"

Dolores del Rio, who has just signed a long-term contract with Warner Brothers, will appear as "The Dubarry" in a specially written story.

This complicates the position of British International Pictures at Elstree, which is to make a film of the same subject, and is

FASHIONS OF 1934

Shows Pretty Girls Modeling New Mode

One of the most elaborate fashion displays ever presented on the screen is shown in the First National picture, "Fashions of 1934," coming soon to the Queen's Theatre.

With William Powell in the stellar role. The latest and most exclusive Parisian and Hollywood styles are presented at the show, including evening, gowns and wraps, sports suits, negligees, dainty lingerie, hunting and riding costumes.

They are displayed by more than a score of beautiful girls playing part of mannequins. The method of display is also unique. The show takes place in an elaborate salon in which tables are set with wines and delicacies for the customers. Not a sign of a gown is in sight for display purposes. Finally when the customers are beginning to wonder where the display is, the lights are turned out, and a circular platform with framed pictures of men and women of the past stands out at one end of the room.

Lights are concentrated on one picture at a time from within the circle. The portrait goes up like a curtain and behind is revealed the pretty manikin in the latest style. The portraits are used to show the resemblance of the modern style to that of fifty or 100 years or more ago, it being claimed that styles go in cycles and that the Parisian couturiers copy many of their fashions from the past ages. The Platform revolves slowly so that each style may be presented.

now seeking for a suitable star for the name-part.

When Charles Laughton returns to Hollywood at the end of his Old Vic season he will be very busy.

According to a cable to the "Kinematograph Weekly," he is to play the role of Mr. Moulton-Barrett in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." The leading lady is Norma Shearer.

Mr. Laughton is also appearing opposite Miss Shearer as Louis XVI in "Marie Antoinette," and is to play "The Scarlet Pimpernel" in a London studio.

Telephones

The ability to talk direct to Hollywood from the heart of a Hawaiian jungle was one of the modern conveniences which Cecil B. De Mille arranged for while filming his latest picture, "Four Frightened People," in the Islands.

Miles from the nearest telephones, De Mille installed his own telephone service on two such locations connecting directly with the regular Hawaii exchange.

The telephones bore the numbers "Hollywood 1" and "Hollywood 2." The executives were able to call De Mille and check over business matters direct with him during the one week in which he filmed in that vicinity.

Apparently the phone numbers were an admission on the part of the Hawaiian natives that the Los Angeles city limits had been extended another 2000 miles.

DEVIL TIGER

For The First Time The King
Of Beasts Battles The Monarch Of The Jungle

There are more men killed by tigers in the jungles of Asia every year than there are tigers killed by men.

It was this statement, accidentally read in a Singapore news paper that was the inspiration for the Fox production "Devil Tiger" the sensational attraction coming to the King's Theatre on Friday.

It was on reading this simple item that Clyde E. Elliott, who directed the film in its natural locale, decided to make a picture of the man-eating tiger who dares murder more often than man.

Elliott interested his friend, James O. Spearing, a New York newspaperman, in his project and together, they concocted the story that "Devil Tiger" tells. The filmization of the tale that there is a tiger in Malaya who has been seen by only a handful of natives, but who had already taken a toll of dozens of men's lives, kept fascinating them until the complete story was outlined.

Elliott's experiences in the Malay Peninsula, an experience he achieved as the director of Frank Buck's "Bring 'Em Back Alive," sprang to his immediate assistance and he began assembling his material in earnest.

The story called for three white actors, for it is the first drama of feature length ever made in the jungle proper. Marion Burns, Kane Richmond and Harry Woods were recruited for the parts, offering what might mean the loss of their lives in the making of so realistic a film.

The company sailed from America on October 19, 1932 and returned to Hollywood on July 15, 1933, a little short of nine months away from civilization. It was the longest and most distant location trip ever made, with many miles of film on which were recorded the most exciting scenes ever seen by man.

Every sequence was photographed and its sound recorded, in its natural locale. In many instances, only slight provision was made for the safety of the company. During the course of the eight months, that the picture was in the making Jack Dunn, a cameraman, was mauled by a black panther, Kane Richmond had two ribs fractured by a constricting python that could not be forcibly unwound, and Marion Burns suffered the experience of having the huge jaws of a 20 foot python snap shut within six short inches of her face.

No one of the party escaped constant attacks of the myriad insects that infest the jungle. Some of these were so large and of such miraculous power that they could drop from a tree into a lunch table below, and walk off with the food supply.

Fortunately, no fever or other serious sickness was contracted by any of the expedition members, despite the perpetual dangers to which they exposed themselves. Tramping through the pounding jungle rains for months no one suffered so much as a minor cold.

"To-morrow at Seven," RKO-

Chester Morris and Vivienne

and comedians as Henry Stephenson,
Allen Jenkins, Frank Mc-

Morris will be remembered for his

McHugh and Jenkins gained

ECHOES OF 1861

2.—Wedding Of Sir John Bowring

(4th January)

Surely the force of humbug can no further go. How in the name of heaven old Botherwig has ever earned the celebrity he disgraces, we cannot tell. He has the gift of gab, an inexhaustible stock of impudence, and strong habits of industry—but a shallower-pated man, or one more unscrupulously false and treacherous, we never saw. Surely a man of his years in consigning his remains to the nuptial couch, would, if possessed of a spark of modesty or gentlemanly feeling, have shunned publicity, and have avoided display. Doubtless he wrote every word of the following extract himself. The whole concern is highly ludicrous.

FASHIONABLE WEDDING AT LEWIS'S MEAD CHAPEL

"Seldom, perhaps never before, has an event in the matrimonial world excited so widespread and deep an interest in this city as was evinced yesterday morning on the celebration of the nuptials of Sir John Bowring, late Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary in China and Miss Castle of Clifton. The world-wide fame and celebrity in so many walks of literature and politics of the talented bridegroom created a curiosity and wish to see him, when it was known that he was about to lead to the altar here a lady belonging to one of the principal families of Clifton, rarely manifested. For hours before the time appointed for the wedding to take place, the chapel was thronged with ladies and gentlemen anxious to obtain admission to the place of worship, or at all events within the railings encompassing the building; and it required unceasing efforts of a large body of police, acting under the watchful guidance of Sergeant Newton, to keep the pressure of the crowd within bounds. A good many private carriages too, arrived containing persons of almost every denomination. As the time drew on, the concourse without increased; energetic young ladies were now and then seen bawling or fascinating sturdy young police officers with versions of the law to the effect that, if the gates were closed against anybody—particularly themselves—the marriage would be illegal; whilst inside the sacred edifice every available spot whence a view of the interesting ceremony or the distinguished persons taking part in it could be seen, was elegantly adorned with festoons of evergreens and flowers, the work of children connected with the place. Around the communion table the floor was covered with red baize. In the vestibule near the central door were grouped a number of Foundation Girls, under the care of the Governess, Mrs. Barnes, waiting to welcome the bride. About eleven o'clock the intimate friends and relatives of the happy couple began to arrive and they took their seats under the pulpit. Shortly after eleven o'clock the bridegroom entered the chapel from the vestry. In a few minutes later the bride arrived. After alighting from her carriage, she took the arm of her brother, Robert Castle, Esq. The bride was immediately followed by Miss Agnes Castle and Master Michael Castle, the bride's nephew. Then followed six bridesmaids. When the parties had taken their place the nuptial ceremony commenced. The contracting parties were Sir John Bowring, Kt. L.D., F.R.S., late Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary in China, and Miss Deborah Castle, daughter of the late Thomas Castle of Grove House, Clifton. The service was very solemnly performed by the Rev. R. Brook Aspland, of London. "Bristol Western Daily Press."

OLD RESIDENTS LEAVE

Mr. James Mitchell

With the departure of the Blue Funnel liner Hector this morning, the Talkoo Sugar Refinery will be losing one of its oldest employees in the person of Mr. John Mitchell who, accompanied by Mrs. Mitchell, is leaving the Colony on retirement. Two well-known and highly respected persons, they will carry with them the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

Mr. Mitchell arrived in the Colony in 1902 when he joined the staff of the Talkoo Sugar Refinery, and he leaves them now after 32 years service.

A keen sportsman, he has taken a deep interest in the Talkoo Club, especially in promoting its social and sporting interests, and by reason of his sincerity has won friends on all sides.

Mrs. Mitchell also has been prominently identified with social work at Talkoo. Before the Quarry Bay School came into being, she ran for many years a most useful educational establishment there, this being later transferred to Talkoo Dock property, in the building which was formerly Blackhead's soapworks. The Government eventually took over this little venture, which was the forerunner of the present Quarry Bay School. For many years also, Mrs. Mitchell arranged kinderspiels at Talkoo, training the children with marked success, many of whom received their first instruction in dramatic art from her.

Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell on their voyage home is their daughter Mrs. James, widow of the late Mr. C. P. James, of the Dollar Steamship Line.

The amah going into the kitchen and suddenly she heard the sound "Ai yah." She asked the amah what was the matter but the latter replied "nothing." The complainant then saw a figure of a man moving about. She got up and put a chair against the door to the cubicle, at the same time trying to climb to a window with the intention of shouting for help. One of the robbers, however, climbed over the partition to the cubicle and stopped her. This man who had his face covered carried a knife with which he threatened the complainant. Three more men who also had their faces covered, then came in and the amah and the complainant were tied and gagged. The robbers then ransacked the place. One of them searched the complainant for keys and also took a quantity of money from her person. After about 15 to 20 minutes the robbers left the place by the staircase door. Few minutes later the complainant managed to release herself and raised the alarm.

The complainant and the amah then gave evidence in support of Sergeant Goodwin's outline, after which the case was adjourned.

UNUSUAL SUMMONS HEARD IN TRAFFIC COURT

"Talking To Bus Driver"

Summoned for talking to the driver of Bus No. 511 from Leighton Hill Road to the Bottom of Garden Road, Lui Sam, car driver, was fined $10 before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy yesterday.

The summons was taken out as a result of a complaint made by Mr. H. W. Walker. The driver of the bus, Lui Sam, was also summoned with driving without due care and caution and was fined $10.

Mr. Hamilton thanked Mr. Walker for having brought the case to the notice of the Police.

Lam Kain-hung, driver of lorry No. 650, was fined $25, or one month's imprisonment, on a summons for failing to stop after colliding with a ricksha in Hennessy Road on April 21, and $10 on a second summons of failing to report the accident.

Defendant collided with the ricksha which was being driven from east to west along Hennessy Road. He was overtaking at the time.

Tse Powah, driver of lorry No. 509, was fined $15, or two weeks' imprisonment, for overtaking and passing a moving tramcar.

Traffic Inspector Nicol said defendant attempted to pass the tramcar on the off side near the Yacht Club, and collided with it, doing damage to the extent of $50. The money for the damage was paid.

POSSESSION OF FORGED NOTES

Arrested at the Tung On Wharf on May 3 with 17 forged $10 bank notes of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China tied in his arms, Wu Sam, 36, was brought before Mr. Hamilton at Central Magistracy yesterday on a charge of being in possession of the said notes.

Acting Inspector M. Murphy prosecuted. After all the evidence had been given the defendant was committed to stand his trial at the next Criminal Sessions.

Revenue Officer Yuen Fook told the Court that at 11 p.m. on May 3, he was on duty at the Tung On Wharf, searching passengers coming off the s.s. Sai On. He saw defendant coming on to the wharf from the Sai On. He searched defendant and found two packets tied round his arms with two elastic bands on each. He opened the packets and found they contained bank notes. Getting suspicious, he showed the notes to Revenue Officer Dunlop who asked him to take them and the defendant to the Imports and Exports Office. There were ten notes in one packet and seven in the other.

Evidence in regard to the forgeries of the notes was then given by Mr. J. M. Pinna, accountant's clerk of the Chartered Bank. Mr. Pinna said he had been dealing with this kind of notes for the last nine years. The notes produced were good forgeries and would not be detected by a layman. The signature on the left hand side was lithographed or printed instead of being signed. The numbers were unevenly printed and the paper was different from a genuine note.

After a police interpreter had read out the statement made by the defendant in answer to the charge, the defendant, as stated, was committed for trial. The defendant's statement was: "I did have 17 forged bank notes."

COMMITTED TO SESSIONS

And Then Another Charge

Five minutes after he had been committed to stand his trial at the next Criminal Session on a charge of having participated in an armed robbery at No. 47, Water Street, a 21-year old unemployed Chinese had a similar charge preferred against him before Mr. Macfadyen at Central Magistracy yesterday.

The defendant was alleged to have taken part in an armed robbery at No. 80, Jaffee Road, Wanchai on March 15.

Detective-Sergeant C. H. Goodwin, prosecuting, said that the complainant was Choy Fung King, the wife of the comrade of the s.s. Hangsang. On March 15, she was living on the first floor of 80, Jaffee Road together with three children and an amah. Her husband was away at the time.

On the morning in question, the complainant was lying on the bed feeding a young child. She heard

SALARY CLAIM

Judgment For Plaintiff

Mr. Charles Chan, trading as the International Employment Agency, Whiteaway, Laidlaw Building was sued by his former stenographer, Mrs. A. Lee for $57 before Mr. Justice Jacks at the Summary Court yesterday. The claim was said to represent salary alleged to be due to the plaintiff from February 10 to April 2 of this year.

The defendant admitted liability to the extent only of $17, which he applied to pay into Court.

Fashur Tay, an employee of the Agency, said he knew plaintiff, who used to call him "Fatty" in the office. On March 10, he saw Mr. Chan hand her a number of bank notes.

Francis Yip, another clerk, said he was in the office at the time and also saw the money handed over. Mrs. Lee asked for a loan because she said she was going to the Races. Mr. Chan said he could only give her $40. On the following Monday, Mrs. Lee told witness that she had had no luck. A week or two later, plaintiff was dismissed and was told that if she called at a later date the money owing to her would be paid. When she called, Mr. Chan told her that, making allowances for loans, she was entitled to $17, and "this he offered her. She refused it and went out."

His Lordship gave judgment for the plaintiff.

NO CASE TO ANSWER

Puisne Judge Decides For Defendant

Before Mr. Justice Jacks at the Supreme Court yesterday, Yuen San, trading as the Yuen San Kee Firm, of 4, Wa In Fong Street, sued

Chau Sik-kwan, trading as Chau Wo Lee Firm, of 75, High Street, for $379.80 for work done and material supplied.

Mr. C. Y. Kwan appeared for defendant, plaintiff appearing in person and with no witnesses.

Plaintiff stated that he was instructed by defendant to do certain work which he did but, for which he had not been paid.

Cross-examined, he agreed that defendant was then an official of the Kay Construction Company, that the instructions were given in that firm's office and in the presence of several other officials. He further agreed that he at first looked to a Mr. Pragnell for payment and instructed a solicitor to write Mr. Pragnell accordingly. Then he agreed with other subcontractors to leave the collection of monies from Pragnell to Chau. When Chau could not get the money, he sued him. He knew that Chau had taken a summons for $1,000 out against Pragnell, but did not know that nothing had been paid in respect of the judgment.

Mr. Kwan submitted that on plaintiff's own evidence there was no case to answer, and his Lordship gave judgment on the claim and costs for defendant.

The claim by Inder Singh, night-watchman, of Messrs. Whiteaway, Laidlaw and Co., for $205 from Foja Singh, registered money-lender, was concluded before Mr. Justice Jacks, at the Supreme Court yesterday, when judgment and costs were given for defendant. Foja Singh, who was represented by Mr. M. A. da Silva, contended that

Survey Of Local Society's Activities

A stirring appeal for help for the Society of Protection of Children was made by Mr. M. A. Cooper, B. Com., at the Rotary Club yesterday in the course of an address which dealt with the various aspects of the work of the Society.

Mr. Cooper's speech made a deep impression among his listeners.

Mr. T. B. Wilson presided over the meeting and Mr. M. K. Lo, on behalf of the Rotary Club proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Cooper at the conclusion of the address.

COMBATting INFANTILE MORTALITY

What I have to say does not relate to all the children in this Colony, but to the comparative few who come under the care of the Hongkong Society for the Protection of Children, with which, as Professor Middleton Smith knew, I and my colleague Mr. Boxer happen to be connected. Child welfare is, I know, a matter of particular interest to the members of this Club. Quite apart from Hongkong Rotary's efforts to provide and equip playgrounds, not a few Rotarians have been active members of the Children's Society almost, if not since its inception some four years ago, and could tell you much more about its history than I know. It is to those members who do not actively participate in the work of the local Society for the Protection of Children that I have been asked to say something of the kind of people with whom it deals, the way it deals with them, and what it is trying to do. The Society is now spending at the rate of nearly $25,000 a year. More than 90 per cent. of this expenditure is incurred on behalf of the poorest Chinese families in the Colony; families so poor that anyone not closely acquainted with their circumstances might well doubt what I say. Last Friday, just for the purposes of this talk, I combined a little data relating to fifty Chinese families in the Western District of Hongkong. All of these families are now being assisted by the Society. The instances were not selected; they were taken in the order in which they were recorded.

This was what I found: In 4 per cent of the cases there was no family income, and in only one case did the estimated income reach $24 a month. The individuals who made up those families were trying to live on an estimated average monthly income of $2.47 per head. There is, of course, a tendency among those applying for relief to minimize their income, and in the case of casual labourers it is impossible to devise any sure check. On the other hand, information gathered from various sources goes to confirm that wage rates are substantially as represented by the applicants, and in cases of casual labour the estimates made by the officers of the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs correspond very closely with our own. What work did these people do? I found that in half the cases, the senior male of the family was a street cooler; in other instances he might be a hawker or a cobbler. Among the women-folk of these fifty families, or whom about 40 per cent were augmenting the family income, predominant occupations were street sewing and earth carrying.

What sort of accommodation did these people occupy? One-third of the families were able to afford the comparative luxury of a cubicle at an average rent of $4.10 a month. A cubicle may measure 8 feet by 8, and have partitions 8 feet high. While it has the advantage of affording a certain amount of privacy, the partitions naturally interfere with light and ventilation. The remaining two-thirds of the families concerned could afford to rent only a single bed-space, or bunk, at an average monthly cost of $2.97. How many people will you find living in cubicles and bed-spaces on a single floor of a tenement building? I merely took nine floors, and struck an average of twenty-six people per floor. And how long, one may ask, had these fifty families been living in Hongkong? In four cases the senior member of the family was Hongkong born; in the remaining 46 instances, the average length of residence was nearly 12 years.

And now two questions about the children. How many had been born to the parents of these families? The number was 313. Of these, how many were living? The answer is 146, or roughly 47 percent or 3 per family.

A Point of Interest.

Apart altogether from the nature of this information (and I hope that at least a few listeners who did not know it before will welcome the opportunity of knowing it now), one point of interest about it is that it is so exhaustive. In each case which is dealt with by the Children's Society, an attempt is made to obtain every item of information which will serve to define more clearly the general problem of poverty, over-crowding and disease, which will help us to judge whether a particular application for relief is worthy, in the light of our standards, and whether the economic condition of those among whom the work is carried on appears to be improving or deteriorating.

When Mr. T. M. Hazlerigg spoke to you on "Child Welfare" in September, 1931, he dealt at some length with the root causes of the difficulties experienced by the class of people whose circumstances I have illustrated. At that time, the S.P.C. had not been in existence for two years. I would like to continue where he left off and give you some idea of how the Society is organised and what it is doing now that it is older by two years and a half. Before doing so, however, I should mention that desperate poverty and ignorance are recognised as the Society's real enemies. Poverty is the badge of every people whose standard in the arts of production is low, and to whom nature has not been more than normally bountiful. Over-crowding exists mainly because those who herd together are too poor to afford better accommodation. If the prevalence of a bed-space as a unit of accommodation is a fair criterion of the degree of over-crowding, then it is just as common in Eastern Hongkong, which includes the newly built reclamation area, as in the Western district, and though old buildings near the centre of the town may be replaced by new, over-crowding there is going to continue just so long as the industrial and commercial organisation of this part of the world relies on the use of a high proportion of unskilled and low-paid labour. Hand in hand with over-crowding goes disease. While conditions in the interior of China remain so unsatisfactory, the Society recognises that a measure of its relief work in cases of poverty must be of a palliative nature, justifiable mainly, if not solely, on humanitarian grounds. In combatting ignorance, we can expect more permanent results, and published figures of births and deaths suggest that those results are just appearing, albeit slightly.

Not Much "Cruelty."

You will notice that the word "cruelty" has no place in the title of the Hongkong Society as it has in that of the parent organisation in England. Wanton cruelty to children is not common in Hongkong, and in only one case last year did the Society prosecute. There were cases, of course, in which conditions "justified" supervision, and this was carried out with the co-operation of the S.C.A. Inspectors. In this connection, and to illustrate how very con-derate the Chinese can be, I might mention a case which arose last week. I will not surprise the Society's workers in this room; they know too well the enormous variety of our work, but it may interest others. Living in a cubicle in the Western district of Hongkong with five other people we found a very pretty child of three.

She is fair-haired, has light eyes, and looks for all the world as though she had just arrived from England. The only person she has ever called "father"—this is a baby Cantonese—is a very poor Chinese in whose family she has been cared for since shortly after birth. The circumstances of the case suggest that she was abandoned or farmed out by one or both of her parents. Truth sometimes lies at the bottom of a very deep and dirty well, but I believe we now know in what part of the world are the child's parents, and we shall do our best to place her in the environment to which birth entitles her. Knowing also the surrounding circumstances, I cannot help feeling grateful to the little Chinese for the obvious kindness he has shown to one who may be of my own race.

Milk Food for Infants.

The great part of the Society's work for children consists of providing milk food for infants whose mothers are unable to feed them. This work is done mainly through our three branches, two in Hongkong and one in Kowloon. Each branch is controlled by one or more male Secretaries who make decisions in difficult cases, sometimes after consultation with the Society's Directors, and prepare monthly case and financial reports of the work at their branches. We have four branch Secretaries: two are solicitors, one is a barrister, and one a doctor. At each of the three branches we have a woman inspector. She is bi-lingual, accomplished in the care of sick children, and must have initiative and a fund of common-sense. A woman without one of those four attributes would not secure a post with the Society. The children she deals with are referred to her care from many sources: the Society's intelligence service is, in fact, the public generally, though the vast majority of cases are submitted by half-starved mothers who have little or no milk for their children and cannot afford to buy any good prepared milk food. Unless the circumstances of the case are exceptional, when she will probably ask her Secretary for a decision, the Inspector will not give assistance to Chinese families in the way of providing food unless the family income is less than $4.00 per head per month.

Several doubts may occur to you about this branch of the Society's work. You may say: "I can see that the Society is relieving the anguish of the mother who feels that her child is slipping away from her for lack of nourishment, but is it not saving the lives of weaklings who will later be a burden to themselves and the community?" Our statistics show that in the majority of cases we are doing exactly the opposite. Unless the Society existed, most of the children it helps to feed would either die in childhood (and infant mortality is the rottenest form of waste in any community), or they would struggle into a handicapped adolescence. We have the pleasure of seeing the majority of those children developing healthily. More than that, we see parenthood regarded in a new light by those whose children we help to rear. The Society's Inspector is not merely a food distributor. She is a teacher of all that is embodied in the term "child welfare." Her knowledge and discreet advice is respected by most ignorant mothers, and she has no time to waste with those who persistently disregard what she has to tell them. I might just mention here that we are not keen to deal with syphilitic children: this may sound hard, but it is wise.

You may ask whether the food we supply is not misappropriated. Precautions are taken to see that the milk supplied is used for the child. Two of these precautions are periodic inspection and weighing. There is really not much likelihood of misappropriation of supplies by parents, because the mothers are genuinely anxious to have their children put on weight, and are grateful for our help.

Medical.

The second important branch of the Society's work is medical. Disease, as I said, accompanies poverty, and our Inspectors try to secure appropriate medical treatment for the children who need it.

NEW TERRITORIES PRODUCTS

Mr. Braga's Questions For Council

With regard to the question of rendering the New Territories more productive, readers will be interested to learn that at tomorrow's meeting of the Legislative Council, the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga will ask the following questions:—

In view of the widespread interest which exists in the Colony to see the New Territories made more productive in raising food-stuffs, will the Government undertake to consider this matter with the object of:—

1—allocating a sum of money in the Draft Estimates for 1935 for the purpose of assisting the attainment of this desirable object;

2—apportioning any such vote that may be budgeted for the specific purpose of establishing and maintaining an Experimental Farm for agriculture and livestock;

In 1931, as a step towards meeting the serious shortage of hospital accommodation for poor Chinese children of Kowloon, there was started the Hospital and Clinic of the Chinese Sisters at Shamshui-po.

Splendid work has been done at that hospital by four British medical men, to whom the Society is deeply indebted. Foodstuffs and medical supplies are furnished by the Society and the services of our former Kowloon Inspector a trained nurse, have been placed at the disposal of the Hospital. Her presence there has been vital, not merely to advise the Chinese Sisters, but to act as an interpreter of instructions given by the doctors. The Sisters, you see, do not speak or read English. In a single year, the number of In-Patients dealt with at that small children's hospital has been 875, and the number of Out-Patients has exceeded 1,500. We hope that in the not too far distant future there will be established a children's hospital with an adequate and trained nursing staff and proper accommodation and equipment for surgical work to deal with these cases. The doctors who give us their services so ungrudgingly are entitled to better facilities than at present exist.

Most Difficult Work.

Just one more branch of the Society's activities I would mention before closing. It is the most expensive type of work handled, and cases are usually referred for decision to the Executive Committee. It consists of helping children of various races where the parents, by reason of unemployment, are unable to support them, or have died. As was mentioned in the Society's last report, it is most difficult in these days of trade depression to find employment for the unemployed, and the only practical way of doing this in most Chinese cases is by providing hawkers' licences and stock. Last year, with the co-operation of the Police, the Society was able to secure 36 hawkers' licences and in most cases the parents concerned became self-supporting. Where employment cannot be secured for the senior members of families who have been accustomed to a higher standard of living, and a grant in aid is necessary for the benefit of the children, the Committee observes the principle, so far as possible, of applying the money directly in payment of food bills, rent, or school fees. As examples of work which it would be very hard to criticize I may mention that in the last few months there have come under the Society's care two Filipino boys who lost both parents within a year, two Indian boys who lost their mother and whose father is unemployed, a very intelligent Chinese boy who also lost both parents; and one whose parents left the Colony and abandoned him.

St. Louis Industrial.

In some cases of this nature the Society co-operates with that excellent organisation the Benevolent Society, and in nearly all do we rely on the assistance of the various orphanages and allied institutions in the Colony. One of these deserves special mention: the St. Louis Industrial School. Everyone has heard of the St. Louis School, but anyone who really wants to appreciate the educational methods of the Salesian Fathers should visit the School occasionally. It is almost inevitable that we have to place in that School boys of different race and station in life, but after his

3—associating such proposed Experimental Farm in some way with the University of Hong Kong; 4—adopting any other measures which in the opinion of the Government might be conducive to increasing the agricultural production of the New Territories and particularly in the direction of pig-breeding and poultry farming.

Other Business.

Other business on the agenda is as follows:—

The Attorney General to move the First reading of—

"A Bill to amend the law relating to Opium."

"A Bill to regulate the entry and departure of persons into and out of the Colony, to prohibit the entry of undesirable immigrants and to confer various powers in connection therewith."

The Hon. Sir W. E. L. Shenton, Kt. to move the First reading of—

"A Bill for the Incorporation of the Trustees of the China Fleet Club."

SANITARY BOARD MEETING

Flush Latrine For Shauiwan

The erection of a permanent flush latrine to replace the existing iron latrine in Main Street, East, Shauiwan (hillside) was approved by members of the Sanitary Board at the fortnightly meeting yesterday. The latrine will consist of 26 seats for male and 10 for female.

Other matters discussed were of a formal nature, and those present at the meeting were Mr. E. A. D. Forrest (President), Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson (vice-President), Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson (vice-President), Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith (Secretary for Chinese Affairs), Mr. Wong Kwong Tin, Mr. M. K. Lo, Mr. L. C. F. Bellamy, Dr. Li Shu Fan, Dr. R. A. de Castro Basto, Mr. C. J. Roe (secretary) and Mr. Im Ping Tseung (assistant secretary).

first week or so there I have never discovered a boy anything but happy. Two features of the St. Louis—always appeal to the casual visitor—the healthy row that goes on and the sight of a bearded Salesian Father participating with gusto in any game from marbles to football. You should attend their Sunday evening cinema show. You needn't sit on the floor as many of the six or seven hundred do, but you mustn't mind that they have only a baby cinematograph. If you do not know it, you should examine the quality of their book-binding, their printing, and the footwear, clothing and furniture they turn out. But don't become too intimate, or the brass band may be requested to play in your honour. Many people, I know, do not appreciate brass band music. Of nearly a hundred boys who board in the St. Louis School the Children's Society is helping to maintain twelve.

But I have said enough to give you a fair insight into the activities of the Society for the Protection of Children. Everyone is entitled to place his or her own valuation on that work, and frankly, if people do not agree that it should be carried on, we do not want a cent of their money. To those who feel that the absence of a fair measure of direct Government relief in this Colony makes our existence highly desirable, I would only say that times are now relatively harder for those we assist than they are for the majority of those who do the assisting; that although we are called upon to help many, the average cost of relief is low; and, what is very important, that our funds are carefully administered. (Applause.)

Vote of Thanks.

In proposing a vote of thanks, Mr. M. K. Lo said that he had only yesterday morning received the Society's Financial Statement which showed that up to the end of April this year the excess of expenditure over income was $3,318.50. He supported Mr. Cooper's appeal for help from Rotarians, pointing out that when busy men like Sir Shouson Chow, Mr. F. H. Loseby, Mr. Thomas (M. M. Boxer and Mr. Cooper were assisting the Society, it must be because the object of their assistance was something very deserving. He thanked Mr. Cooper for his excellent address.

A HUNDRED NEW TOWNS

The proposal by General Sir Frederick Maurice and other distinguished Englishmen for concentration of new industries in a hundred new towns is worth examination. They start from two known facts—that a certain number of new industries will have to be accommodated in new factories in Britain during the next ten years, and that not less than 1,000,000 new houses will have to be constructed for the needs of the community during the same period. Their proposal is that these two requirements should be satisfied by a single plan.

They point out that new factories will be constructed in Britain during the present year designed to employ 45,000 workers. But since the pre-slump year of 1929 may be regarded as more normal period, during which new factories for the employment of 75,000 men were constructed, they take that as the basis of calculation, and assume that during the next ten years the development of new British industries will require the building of new factories capable of employing 750,000 persons. Since the normal proportion of productive workers to the rest of the community is 75 to 500, the total population surrounding these centres would be 5,000,000; and their need in new dwellings would be approximately 1,000,000.

Why should these dwellings be built around the overcrowded and dismal existing towns where industry is slack and where much of the population is unemployed? Why not select, with due regard to transport facilities, electricity and water supplies, and agricultural marketing, 100 sites for 100 new towns, and there begin to build simultaneously the new factories and the houses, and appropriate shops, churches and schools, constructing the necessary new roads, and laying out gardens and playing fields? The same question might be put in regard to local conditions especially the lack of open spaces. The tendency is to build within city limits, and though one or two of the larger enterprises have gone out to the New Territories, there is still plenty of room for more out there. The factories would draw the surplus unemployed workers from the old towns, their custom would attract shopkeepers, and the main housing enterprise could be undertaken where land is cheap and in accordance with a national plan.

The chief difficulty of the scheme lies in its magnitude and the enormous capital expenditure required, which would be £400,000,000 to £500,000,000 for houses, and as much again for land, factories, shops, roads, etc. General Maurice's scheme appears to presuppose some form of state guarantee, and would probably require the setting up of a National Housing Corporation, which has been frequently advocated on other grounds. If the Government could be prevailed upon to guarantee a loan at a modest rate of interest, the first necessary measure would be a national survey with a view to the future population and the regional town planning—a task not beyond the powers of a Government; bold enough to take a long view.

AN UNUSUAL SCENE

Shanghai, May 8.

The majestic spectacle of thirty merchantmen and thirteen warships riding at anchor at Woosung was seen on Sunday when the fog which compelled them to halt suddenly cleared.

Most of them steamed up the Whangpoo, but the remainder, including the Empress of Russia and the Empress of Canada, and the P. & O. Mantua, had to wait until yesterday because the fog re-descended.—Reuter.

OBITUARY

"Tadpole" Passes Away

The tennis and cricket communities in general, and members of the Hong Kong Cricket Club in particular, were shocked to learn of the death of "Tadpole" (A. Ting) the H.K.C.C.'s popular "No. 1" which occurred yesterday.

"Tadpole" as he was familiarly known to a large number of local sportsmen, had been in ill-health for some time but it was at first thought that he would recover from his ailment.

He had been in the employ of the cricket club for over 30 years, and many were the tales he could relate about some of the more exciting cricket or tennis matches that were played on the Club ground. He was not only popular with local sportsmen, but those from Shanghai and Malaya, who visited Hongkong with the "Interport" teams always had a good word for him.

He leaves a large family to mourn his loss notable among whom is his son, Tsui Wai-pui, the present tennis champion, and Tsui Yan-pul, another prominent exponent of the game.

Mrs. G. Stone

It is with much regret that we have to announce the death of Mrs. Georgina Stone, which occurred at her residence at 5D Dock Quarters, Kowloon yesterday. The deceased who was the wife of Mr. P. E. F. Stone, of the accounting staff of the Hong Kong & Whampoa Dock Co., Ltd., was 69 years of age and had been in indifferent health for some years. She had been in the Colony for over 50 years, prior to which she lived in Japan for several years.

Besides the husband, she leaves four children, Mr. F. Stone of the Hong Kong & Shanghai Bank, and Miss Dorothy Stone, the music teacher. To them the deepest sympathy is extended.

The Funeral.

The funeral took place at the Protestant Cemetery last evening, the Rev. J. R. Higgs, vicar of St. Andrew's Church conducted the service. The chief mourners were Mr. and Mrs. R. Stone and Miss N. Stone, and among the large gathering present were, Messrs. R. J. Goodman, R. G. Craig, J. Revie, J. Proven, D. Keith, W. Ford, R. Lapsley, B. H. Church, J. G. Ozorio, V. M. Hast, W. Hedley, R. E. UNREST IN RED SEA

Britain Strictly Neutral

London, May 7.

Information has been received in London that the British Minister at Jeddah, Sir Andrew Ryan, has been given an assurance that order will be established in the Red Sea port of Hodeida, recently occupied by victorious Wahabites.

In the Commons to-day, when questioned regarding the situation in Hodeida and Yemen, the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, said the British Government had preserved an attitude of strict neutrality towards the conflict between Ibn Saud and the Imam of Yemen with both of whom the British Government were in friendly treaty relations.

Sir John added that the Government had taken only such measures as had proved essential for safeguarding the lives and property of British subjects and British protected persons in the area affected by the hostilities.—British Wireless.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, May 8, 1.30 a.m.)

Essen, May 7.

A fourteen year old boy coolly confessed on Monday that he had strangled to death the thirteen year old Fritz Walkenhorst, a member of the Junior Hitler Youth Organisation, in order to get possession of the boy's uniform and kit. The deed was carefully premeditated, the cold-blooded young murderer having dug a grave in a sand-pit, the day before, decoying his school comrade to the spot and throwing him head first into the pit holding his nose under the soft sand until the body seized to writhe. Carefully stripping off the uniform, the boy-killer covered the corpse with sand and walked nonchalantly home. While making a public confession in Court on Monday the murderer callously munching a ham sandwich.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Koenigsberg, May 7.

A further attack on the autonomy of Memel territory—a strip of land along the Baltic conditionally severed from the Reich by the Treaty of Versailles—was made on Monday when the Memel Parliament summarily closed by decree the Lithuanian Government. Excitement and indignation among the German population of Memel was intense because of the obvious elimination of Parliament which was not only a flagrant violation of the Memel statute guaranteed by the League of Nations but also obviously the prelude to a still further encroachment on the rights of the German population. The Memel newspaper "Dampfboot" which is the only journal to publish a full account of the last Parliamentary session was promptly seized by the police.—Transocean Kuo Min.

London, May 7.

The British press reports on Monday that an exchange of views through diplomatic channels has already been taken up between Britain and Italy about the war in Yemen. So far full particulars were unobtainable beyond the fact that the two nations had confirmed that neither had any direct interest in the quarrel between Ibn Saud and the Imam of Yemen. No further news has been received from the seat of war but the advance of the Wahabites on Saana appears to be taking place, according to the programme, so that a big battle near Saana is expected within a day or two. The report that the heir-apparent to the throne of Yemen has deposed his father in order to take over the defence, of Saana himself has not yet been confirmed.

In Hodeida all is quiet. Fugitives to the island of Camaran have returned and placed themselves under the protection of the Wahabite police.—Transocean Kuo Min.

ROYALTY LUNCH AT COMMONS

A Unique Occurrence

The King and Queen of Siam lunched at the House of Commons. This is the first time reigning monarchs have done so. Subsequently they listened to proceedings in the House.—Reuter.

Luebeck, May 7.

A plague of cockchafers comparable to that described in the Old Testament descended on Monday on North Germany, swarms of the vermin covering fields of the Schleswig Holstein peninsula and regions surrounding Hamburg and Luebeck. The ground was covered so quickly that thousands of citizens were tempted to profit by remuneration work earning the Government premium of one Mark per hundred weight, since the swarm was so thick that the insects could be literally shovelled into baskets. In Mecklenburg all schools were closed for the day so as to enable the children to join in the extermination gangs. A village near Kiel hastily passed an ordinance mustering the entire population to combine to save the town cemetery which presented the illusion of crawling away under the concentrated cockchafers attack. On the main highways motor travel was only possible at slow speed with closed cars or heavy goggles since millions of the crushed insects in the road led to the danger of skidding while those flying in the air impeded the view.—Transocean Kuo Min.

I.R.A. RAID IN ULSTER

Attempt To Blow Up Memorial

Belfast, May 7.

Irish Republican Army gunmen, who crossed the Ulster border with two landmines, attempted to blow up the Armagh City War Memorial to-day.

The gangsters crossed the border by motor-car, knocked up a doctor, and compelled him, at the point of the revolver, to stand by to render assistance in the event of one of the gunmen being injured when the explosion occurred.

One of the land-mines went off and damaged the granite steps of the Memorial. The other failed to explode. Attempts to set it off were frustrated as police and inhabitants rushed from their houses in an attempt to catch the would-be wreckers.

The gunmen drove on in their car with the doctor, but dropped him at the frontier. It is believed that the outrage followed the action of the Ulster Government who recently banned the erection of a memorial at Carrickmore, Tyrone, to the I.R.A. men killed in 1916.—Reuter.

BRITAIN TAKES ACTION AGAINST JAPAN

A VERY GRAVE STEP

London, May 8. The Manchester Guardian refers to Mr. Runciman's announcement as one of the gravest steps Britain has taken in its protectionist career, and adds it is fairly evident from the statement that Mr. Runciman is using the quota proposal as a big stick.

Mr. Runciman chooses as his quota period a series of years that puts Japan at a great disadvantage. He then proclaims the door for negotiations still remains open. From the recent course of Japanese policy, one would hazard this won't impress the Japanese.—Reuter.

PRESTIGE OF THE LEAGUE

Lord Ponsonby's Assertions

London, May 7. A resolution urging the Government to adopt a more vigorous foreign policy was moved by Lord Ponsonby in the House of Lords.

He declared that Japan's recent declaration went alarmingly far. He accused the Government of submitting to Japan's encroachments at every stage with ill-effects upon the world at large and with the tendency to weaken the prestige of the League of Nations.

As regards disarmament, Lord Ponsonby declared that Britain had given no assistance to certain other Powers endeavouring to make a real advance towards disarmament.

PROTECTORATE CLAIM

Lord Cecil said that the recent amazing Japanese declaration proclaimed a Protectorate almost for the whole of China.

Earl Stanhope, replying, said as he understood the matter, the Japanese did not object to technical assistance provided it kept free from politics.

He rebutted Lord Ponsonby's assertions regarding disarmament and added that the Government did not intend for the present to pursue direct conversations. It remained to be seen what would happen at Geneva, but Britain would continue to take the lead as long as there was a vestige of hope.—Reuter.

"JAPAN'S SPECIAL RIGHTS"

London, May 7. In the House of Commons at question-time, Captain Erskine-Bolt challenged Sir John Simon to define the phrase he used last week regarding "Japan's special rights in China which were recognised by, but not shared in, by other Powers."

Sir John Simon said that such rights arose from agreements relating to particular enterprises, for example, the Japanese Concession at Hankow.

He was not in a position to give a list of such agreements, nor did he think it necessary to do so, since the responsibility of proving that this or that right comes within the category in question, does not rest with the British Government.—Reuter.

GERMANY AND THE SAAR

Danger Of A Coup De Main

Geneva, May 8.

The danger of a German coup de main in the Saar region was called to attention at the League Council by Mr. Knox, president of the Saar Governing Body, who refers to the political character of the resolution recently passed by State Police in Saarbrücken protesting against the recruitment of some emigrant German ex-police officials and employment of outside help for maintenance of order. Mr. Knox adds it is significant that first news of this came from a Berlin wireless station and was preceded by regular German Press and wireless campaign.

The governing body has taken disciplinary action against the police officials concerned.—Reuter.

Runciman's Firm Stand Regarding Dumping

AS RESULT OF FAILURE IN TEXTILE NEGOTIATIONS

British Interests Must Be Safeguarded

London, May 8.

The measures to be taken to protect the British cotton and rayon industries against Japanese competition in the Home and Colonial markets were announced in the Commons by the President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Walter Runciman.

Mr. Runciman recalled that the textile representatives of the two countries had failed to reach an agreement and that the whole position had been under review between two Governments.

On 16th March, he handed the Japanese Ambassador a memorandum enquiring whether his Government had any proposals to make for dealing with the problem.

On 31st March, he received a reply in which the Japanese Government expressed willingness to consider any further proposals which the British Government might make but making no proposals of their own.

The "Government have considered the whole problem again very carefully in the light of this reply. It is already a year since the British Government drew the attention of the Japanese Government to the serious position arising from Japanese competition.

JAPAN'S ATTITUDE

"It is of the utmost importance that every effort should be made to deal with a problem of this magnitude in the most appropriate way.

"Unfortunately, there appeared to be nothing in the Japanese Government's Note of 31st March to suggest that an early agreement was to be expected. Although, therefore, the Government still holds the view that the problem which faces us is one which can only be settled satisfactorily by co-operation in some form between Japan and ourselves, the British Government cannot allow a situation to develop in which the negotiations are protracted indefinitely without any immediate prospect of success and during this time the Japanese, quite naturally from their point of view, are continuously expanding their exports in our markets to the detriment of Lancashire, while our hands are tied.

NO POSTPONEMENT

"Accordingly, the Government have come to the conclusion that they would not be justified any longer in postponing, in the hope of an agreement, such action as is open to them with a view to safeguarding British trade.

"I therefore informed the Japanese Ambassador last Thursday that, in the circumstances, the British Government were obliged to resume their liberty to take such action as they deemed necessary to safeguard our commercial interests.

I assured him, and I am confident the House will join me in this, that such step as it was proposed to take would be taken in no unfriendly spirit."

As regards the Anglo-Japanese Trade Treaty, Mr. Runciman said he was satisfied that the Government could without denouncing it, take proper and sufficient measures to protect British commercial interests. He, therefore, saw no reason to terminate the treaty which had regulated commercial relations between the two countries for over twenty years.

SILK DUTIES

As far as the United Kingdom market was concerned, the Government felt they could no longer continue to suspend the review of silk duties by the Import Duties Advisory Committee which had now been asked to complete its report on these duties as quickly as possible.

In the case of the colonial markets, the Secretary for the Colonies had been in consultation with Colonial Governments, and the Governments of Colonies and Protectorates, for which such action would be appropriate would be asked to introduce import quotas which, except in the case of West Africa, would apply to all foreign imports of cotton and rayon goods.

IMMEDIATE OPERATION

It was further proposed that the necessary legislation in the colonial territories should be enacted with the least possible delay and that it should be so framed that the actual regulation of imports would be reckoned as beginning retrospectively from to-day 7th May, so that no attempt at forestalling would be allowed to frustrate the policy and intentions of the measures under contemplation.

In the most important of the West African colonies there were treaty obligations which precluded differentiation in favour of British goods.

It was for this reason that a year ago notice was given to release the West African colonies from their obligations under the Anglo-Japanese Treaty and action there would be limited to Japanese goods.

OTHER COMMODITIES

Mr. Runciman added that while he had not dealt in his statement with the position of any goods other than cotton and rayon textiles, the Government were aware that Japanese competition was not limited to those goods and were considering, in the case of each of the other industries involved, what tariff action in the colonial markets was called for.

As regards the Home market the matter would be dealt with by the ordinary procedure of the Imports Duties Act.

The Minister concluded by stating that the Government would, at any time, give careful consideration to any proposals the Japanese Government might make towards a solution by mutual agreement of this difficult problem. Such a solution ought to be possible where two Governments were, as he was sure they were anxious to agree.—British Wireless.

NO RUPTURE TO BE IMPLIED

London, May 7. Reuter learns on high authority that the British Government is anxious to emphasise that Mr. Runciman's statement does not imply anything like a rupture between Japan and Britain. On the contrary, the greatest efforts will be made to remain on the friendliest terms.

It is still felt that an Anglo-Japanese agreement may be possible.

It is pointed out that in order to counter-balance British action, Japan is free to adopt similar steps, but the most-favoured-nation clause of the Anglo-Japanese Trade Treaty precludes anti-British discrimination.

The quotas will not apply to East Africa owing to the special position arising from the Congo Basin Treaties.—Reuter.

BRITAIN COMPELLED TO ACT

London, May 8. An Anglo-Japanese relations committee has been formed under the chairmanship of the Rev. E. H. Pickering, M.P., to promote better understanding on commercial and other problems affecting Britain and Japan in the Far East.

The Rev. Pickering was Professor of English at Yamayata Koto Gakko from 1928 to 1931.

Members of the Committee include Mr. R. T. Evans, the Welsh Liberal M.P., Dr. Neville Whymant, the Rev. Murray Walton and other British experts on the Far East.

The hon. secretary, Mr. G. Slater Booth, declared that one of the objects was to give the people of Britain authentic information to enable them to view Far Eastern affairs in sane perspective.—Reuter.

TOKYO VIEW POINT

Tokyo, May 8.

Remarking that the Runciman legislation is marked by a big departure from Britain's principle of freedom in commerce, a high Foreign Office official is of the opinion the quota system infringes the most favoured nation treaty clause, and added that Japan has a free hand to retaliate but had not reached any decision on the matter, owing to the complex of the issues involved and the necessity of giving grave consideration to reaction of trade relations with other countries.—Reuter.

London, May 8.

Most people in Britain deplore the fact that the Government has been compelled to introduce further trade restrictions into an already distracted world, declares "The Times," which adds that the Government was left with no option.

ATTEMPT THAT FAILED

Britain's statement had done all within their power to promote a friendly compromise by encouraging an agreed settlement and now the attempt has failed, they have lost no time in deciding upon a policy of restriction which is as mild as could possibly be expected.

The British Government, "The Times" observes, is only following the lead given, among others, by the Government of India, and Japan voluntarily accepted at the hands of India, a restriction entailing a much larger cutting down of Japanese imports than the new quotas will demand.

A LESSON

It is pointed out that while hinting at the extension of the restrictions to other Japanese products, Mr. Runciman was very careful to assure Japan of Britain's desire to reach a mutual agreement on restrictions.

SILVER MARKET

(From Our Own Correspondent)

London, May 8.

London silver prices to-day were up one-sixteenth for both "spot" and forward, as follows:—

	May 7	May 8
Spot	19 1/16	19 1/8
Forward	19 1/8	19 1/8

The London on New York cross rate at 2 p.m. to-day was 5.11-5/16, compared with 5.11-13/16 at 2 p.m. yesterday.

"The Times" expresses the hope that the lessons of the cotton breakdown will not be neglected by Japanese industrialists.—Reuter.

"JUSTIFIED"

The "Financial Times" commenting on Mr. Runciman's statement says that the British determination to lose no time is manifestly justified by the absence of any proposals from Tokyo.

WARNING NOTE

The "Financial News" hopes that Mr. Runciman's pledge that he will not apply quotas in an unfriendly spirit will be observed, as foreign countries and India are still the most important markets for Lancashire's goods, and heavily applied quotas will merely intensify Japanese competition in these markets.—Reuter.

BACK TO NORMAL

London, May 8.

Japan is left in just as good a position as when she was competing under normal conditions, declares the "Daily Telegraph," which adds that the British Government has shown something more than patience and has now acted in no unfriendly spirit.

The measure it has taken should bring back trade to a point where it may form a basis for a general agreement.

Japan is a good customer of the British Empire. That relation we are anxious to preserve, but not at the price of handing over to Japan the markets which we have created and control.

The "Morning Post" claims that the quotas will effectively curtail Japanese expansion in the textile field, which is still growing apace, although no final solution can be sought in the Colonial Empire alone.—Reuter.

A GOVERNOR'S NARROW ESCAPE

Darjeeling, May 8.

During a local race meeting, two Bengalis fired revolvers at the Governor, Sir John Anderson. Both men were arrested. The Governor was not hit.—Reuter.

RISE IN EMPIRE TRADE

Result Of Ottawa Conference

London, May 7.

During a House of Commons debate on Dominions affairs to-night, the Dominions Secretary, Mr. J. H. Thomas, cited figures to show that despite the economic depression of the last few years, every Dominion affected by the Ottawa Agreement had increased its trade with Britain, and that Britain had increased its trade with them.

The fact that while world trade had gone down, trade within the Empire had improved was sufficient justification for Ottawa. He had received abundant evidence of the appreciation by the Dominions of the way Britain was conducting her side of the Ottawa agreements.

NO NEW ZEALAND OFFER.

Referring specially to New Zealand, Mr. Thomas said a number of people there had urged upon their Government that if all tariffs against British goods were removed, Britain would take everything New Zealand cared to send. The New Zealand communication with regard to this was not taken by the British Government as an offer, because it was perfectly obvious that no New Zealand Government could entertain such a position.

Mr. Thomas pointed out that 25 per cent. of New Zealand's revenue was from tariffs, and said that it was impossible to reconcile the position whereby one Dominion would be given a particular preference against another in the same commodity.—British Wireless.

MR. ROOSEVELT BENDING

Towards Silver Plan

Washington, May 7.

President Roosevelt devoted two hours to-day to a discussion on the silver question, preparatory to announcing that if any legislation was passed improving the status of the metal, it would be approved by the Administration.

With the Secretary of the Treasury Department, Mr. Morgenthau, President Roosevelt studied pending proposals and arranged the arguments he will present to-morrow at the meeting with the leaders of the silver bloc, postponed from to-day.

Although the President is not committed to any specific plan, the silver advocates are apparently confident that a silver programme, including mandatory action, will be enacted this session.

Meanwhile, they have outlined a three-point programme, which they believe will prove acceptable to the President, including:—

(a) mandatory nationalisation of the domestic store of silver,

(b) a declaration of policy that the Federal currency reserve should be seventy per cent. in gold and 25.10 per cent. silver,

(c) a premium on foreign silver used for the purchase of U.S. agricultural exports.

The silver leaders state that the maximum estimate of the metal available for nationalisation is 250,000,000 ounces, and it is contemplated that it be taken over at a price not exceeding fifty cents an ounce.

Senator King declares that the culmination of such a policy would require the accumulation of about 1,500,000,000 ounces and the remonetization of silver might logically be expected eventually.—Reuter.

THE RUBBER SCHEME

Government's Sign Agreement

London, May 7.

An inter-governmental agreement to implement the rubber regulation scheme was signed at the Foreign Office to-day by the representatives of France, Britain, Holland, India and Siam.

Various points regarding the rubber agreement were raised in the House of Commons at question-time.

Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, Secretary of State for the Colonies, said that the consuming interests would be invited to nominate representatives on the Panel which will advise the International Committee on the regulation.

He mentioned that the British Government had had a good deal of discussion with the Government of the United States long before the scheme was published.

NO PIVOTAL PRICE.

He was satisfied that the scheme was adequately designed to secure a reasonable price level. It did not aim at maintaining any pivotal price and he did not think it advisable to introduce a clause to provide for reconsideration of the whole question if the price exceeded a certain limit.

Sir Philip stressed that it would be impossible to say what would be a reasonable price in the absence of knowledge of world conditions and the costs likely to rule.

The Secretary of State informed another questioner that no members of the Regulation Committee would be actually appointed by the British Government.

PANEL REPRESENTATIVES

The Government assumed that one of the members of the Panel representing the consuming interests will represent the interests of the British manufacturing industry.

Mr. T. E. Groves (Lab. Stratford) asked whether the Governments of Ceylon and Malaya would be requested to appoint some representatives of the consuming interests on the International Committee in order to ensure the harmonious operation of the scheme in the general interests.

Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister replied in the negative, pointing out that the scheme expressly provided for the adequate representation of the industries concerned.—Reuter.

COLONEL'S WILD STATEMENT

In Regard To Death Of King Albert

London, May 7.

When asked in the Commons whether he had received any communication from the Belgian Embassy regarding the late King Albert, Sir John Simon answered: "Yes, Sir. My attention has been rightly drawn by the Belgian Government to a statement alleged to have been made by Colonel Seton Hutchinson to the effect that the late King of the Belgians was murdered. I feel sure that the whole House will join with me in regretting the pain and indignation that has been caused throughout Belgium by this unfounded and irresponsible statement."

Sir John Simon's answer received general cheers.—British Wireless.

London, May 8.

Loud Cheers in the House of Commons greeted Sir John Simon's reference "to the unfortunate irresponsible statement" by Col. Seton Hutchinson that King Albert had been murdered, to which the Belgian Government called the attention of the British Government. Sir J. Simon regretted the pain and indignation it had caused in Belgium.—Reuter.

HAPPY UNDERSTANDING WITH MILLS

London, April 21.
If Chelsea escape relegation, as seems highly probable after their victory over Everton, they can congratulate themselves upon their faith in Horton, the outside left, who has fought his way steadily to form which few suspected he possessed.

This was Chelsea's fifth successive victory, and no one did more to bring it about than Horton. With his speed, accurate centres and straightforward methods, he has been admirably suited recently by Mills. These two turned the match in Chelsea's favour.

Everton, a shadow of last year's side in the absence of Dean or a worthy successor, were nevertheless capable of some brilliant football, and for the first hour looked as if they could win whenever they choose. Probably they would have done so if White had been able to control his forwards and to round off their efforts.

Chelsea Rally

In the second half Chelsea rallied strongly. After some almost superhuman efforts by Sagar, the Everton goalkeeper, Oakton headed a goal from Horton's corner, and after that it was merely a question how many goals Chelsea would score.

They got one more, scored by Horton, who darted into the goal-mouth with fine opportunism to get his foot to the ball after Sagar had partly saved from Mills.

Horton's task, it must be said, was made simpler in the later stages by the tiring of Grasswell, the veteran full-back who returned to the team owing to an injury to Cook. While he was able to stand the pace Grasswell was still a back with a style and polish unequalled in England to-day. Youth and speed, however, told in the end.

Stevenson, Everton's Irish international from Glasgow Rangers, played a skilful constructive game, while in the Chelsea defence Craig was again the dominant influence.

Newport, playing their last home game of the season, defeated Bath by three goals to a penalty goal.

Newport owed their success to their alertness, speed and dash. They were much more enterprising and showed an improved conception of combined attack, even though their passing was often faulty, especially in its timing.

In comparison Bath's efforts in combined attack were poor. Gerrard was never conspicuous, except for his kicking. After their early efforts to break down the defence had failed Bath seemed content to make ground by touch-kicking, and so were never really dangerous as scoring force.

No doubt Bath's attacks were handicapped by Fear's wing forward play, and usual the Newport tackling was excellent.

For three-quarters of the game there was little between the packs in the set scrums. But twice in the first half Johnson made brilliant runs and both resulted in tries. Pushed into touch in the first case he threw out quickly to Fear, who found a gap in the defence and scored. Everson converted this and also the next, when Johnson scored after a run from halfway, in which he brought off or eluded tackle after tackle.

Gerrard kicked a splendid penalty goal, from near halfway, and Newport were seven points ahead at the interval. For a little time Bath attacked, but gradually Newport improved, and when James, Bath's young full-back, made the one mistake which marred a perfect display, Fear dribbled, fielded, and passed to Adams, whose try was converted by Everson.

GALLANT EFFORT BY OLD
ALLEYNANS

Recovering from a rather different start, Northampton played brilliantly in the second half against the Old Alleynians at Northampton, and although the visitors twice got within a point, Northampton won by three goals and five tries to three goals and a penalty goal.

Forty-eight points in a game suggests weak defence. There were moments when the Alleynians found their way through the centre of the Northampton three-quarter line rather easily, but the scores were all obtained by clever attack, swiftly executed.

The forwards fought hard, but, packing better, the Alleynians got the ball more often from the set scrums in the first half. Later Northampton made full use of their weight, improved their handling, and gave their backs more opportunities. Sturridge, of Roslyn Park, took a little time to settle down, but he fitted well into the attack, and gave his centres chances which were turned to such good account that four of the tries were scored by the wings, three of them by Chorlton, who played his best game of the season.

Spencer was a very live wire in the Alleynians' back division. He whipped the ball out smartly when his forwards hesitated, and was clever in opening out from loose play. Godfrey played a great game in the centre, and Pettifer did some of the best running in the match.

In the first half F. E. Harris scored two tries and Chorlton one for Northampton. Treen converted one. For the Alleynians Pettifer kicked a penalty goal and scored a try, which he converted. Chorlton (two), Willows, Treen, and Pettifer crossed for the winners in the second half, Treen converting two and T. Harris one. Talbot and Knight scored tries for the Alleynians, both of which Dixon converted.

ENGLAND'S 3-0 VICTORY

In the presence of about 90,000 spectators England defeated Scotland at Association football yesterday by three goals to none. This was the third consecutive victory of England at Wembley, the result yesterday being exactly the same as in 1933.

The game was interesting until the last quarter of an hour, when the spectators left in their thousands, as the issue was beyond either argument or hope for the visitors.

In the first half the Scots played with a strong wind and for a considerable time had rather the better of the struggle, but England's defence was sound. The English forwards gradually improved, and just before the interval Bastin scored a magnificent goal.

On crossing over the Scots made their effort and kept the English back divisions on the defensive. The seige having been raised Bastin was again prominent and was brought down outside the penalty area. Brooks took the free-kick and his drive was diverted by a Scottish back into the goal. Bowersoon added a third point and the game was won. Nevertheless the figures flattered England, and gave no indication of the gallant efforts of the Scotsmen.

The Scottish Invasion.

About 30,000 Scotsmen—and women—were brought to London for the match in sixty special trains from all parts of Scotland, and they joined heartily in the great welcome which was given to the Duke of York and the Prime Minister when they took their seats in the Royal Box. The Duke of York, accompanied by Football Association officials, went on to the pitch, and shook hands with the players of both sides. Before the match started the National Anthem was sung by the great concourse.

A large number of the Scottish visitors toured London in the morning in coaches which picked them up at Euston or King's Cross. The Houses of Parliament were opened to visitors an hour earlier than usual, and Scottish M.P.'s led round large parties. Football enthusiasts passed through the buildings at the rate of about two thousand an hour.

ACCIDENT AT
NEW SCHOOL SITECoolie Fatally
Injured

An inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the death of a Chinese earth-coolie, Leung Fat, aged 50, who was fatally injured on April 19 while working on the New Central British School site, was held yesterday afternoon at the Kowloon Magistracy, when Mr. F. B. Lee sat as Coroner.

A special jury consisting of Messrs. C. R. Wilson (foreman), G. W. Green and J. P. Barrett was empanelled.

Mr. J. B. Mackie, Medical Officer of the Kowloon Hospital said he made a post mortem examination of the body on the morning following the accident and found that the heavy boulder which had crashed upon Leung Fat and caused fractures to the skull, jaw, ribs and the right leg.

The cause of death was severe injuries and shock.

William Bruce, Overseer of the Public Works Department, said it was a part of his duties to visit building and excavation sites twice a week and to give the contractors warning of anything which in his opinion might be considered as dangerous.

Witness last visited the new School site three days before the fatal accident, when he had occasion to warn the contractor Sam Yick of several dangerous boulders which were perched on small hills which were being cut away.

The site of the new school was rectangular and very hilly. On completing his inspection he found two large boulders resting on the light railway, which he ordered the contractor to have removed immediately.

The boulder which caused the fatal accident was not one of the several which he had drawn the contractor's attention to. He had no knowledge of it and had never seen it.

Heavy Rain.

In answer to the foreman of the jury, witness said that it had been raining heavily the night previous and also on the morning of the fatality, and this might have dislodged the soil on which the boulder was resting, causing a landslide.

Fung Sam, brick-layer and earth coolie said he worked for the Sam Yick Company of contractors. On April 19 he was working on a hillside near the new School site pulling in a light railway wagon with earth when a big boulder rolled down the hillside and swept the wagon off the rails. Witness had his feet pinned beneath the wagon but managed to wriggle out. He then went to the contractors where he reported the occurrence.

Witness did not see anyone else injured.

His Worship: Did you not make a statement to the Police that you saw the deceased lying on the light railway? Witness: That is so, but that was when I returned from the contractors.

Witness further stated that the boulder was dislodged from a spot about 12 feet above his head.

Leung Yim, another earth coolie employed by the Sam Yick Co., said that he was also filling wagons with earth on that morning when he saw the boulder begin to roll down the hillside.

Being about three wagons distance away, he shouted, "Run" but the deceased was unable to and was pinned down by the boulder. Witness said he received no warning from the foreman about the rock.

The hearing was remanded until this afternoon when the foreman contractor will give evidence.

China in three weeks with instructions to put the new policy into effect, it was learned, but no details could be obtained as to the nature of the changes contemplated in Foreign Office policy. As the result of his conversations with Mr. Ariyoshi, the Foreign Minister was reported to-day to be convinced that relations between Japan and China gradually are returning to normal.

Mr. Hirota, it was learned, believes that China understands Japan's insistence upon the assumption of special responsibility for the peace of the Far East, but fears Japanese territorial invasion and monopoly of Chinese markets. Taking these facts into consideration, Mr. Hirota feels that a clear exposition of Japanese policy at this time will be understood by Nanking and immediately following his return to China it is expected that Mr. Ariyoshi will take to set at rest Chinese apprehensions as to Japan's intentions. PLEA FOR
HARMONY IN
PHILIPPINESPresident Roosevelt
Praised

Manila, April 30.
With tumultuous cheering and waving of flags and banners, between 30,000 and 40,000 Filipino patriots to-day greeted Mr. Manuel Quezon, President of the Philippines Senate in a manner befitting a conquering hero returned from the wars.

Mr. Quezon and his party were met by the entire native officialdom and a huge crowd of admirers when he stepped from the deck of the U.S. Empress of Canada, returning to his native shores after a highly successful trip to Washington where he led the battle for passage of the Tydings-McDuffie Bill, granting Philippine Independence on terms more agreeable to the Filipinos than the former Hare-Hawes-Cutting Bill.

A parade was formed and Mr. Quezon was escorted to the Liberty Arch on the Luneta with thousands lining the streets to cheer him en route.

Pledge Fulfilled

Speaking to the assembled crowd on the Luneta, Mr. Quezon said the Tydings-McDuffie Bill has completely fulfilled America's pledge to the Philippine Islands. He was emphatic in his praise for President Roosevelt and other Administration leaders who, he said, had been sympathetic towards the Philippine Islands from the outset and had never wavered in their efforts to be fair and just to all.

He pleaded for political harmony in the Philippine Islands in order that the new commonwealth may be ready to face the momentous circumstances surrounding independence.

The Philippines Legislature is expected to meet in extraordinary session to-morrow to ratify the Tydings-McDuffie Bill. Mr. Quezon had pledged that the legislature would ratify the measure in its present form at once.

The bill provides for the adoption of a constitution and institution of the government of the Commonwealth of the Philippine Islands pending withdrawal of American sovereignty and complete independence. The interim government is to be autonomous, subject to certain reservations intended for a safe-guard of the sovereignty and the responsibilities of the United States.—United Press.

NEWS IN MARKETCommodity Price Closes
Steady At 23 Cents

Sympathy with the restriction scheme now that the British Government has announced that it is prepared to give effect to it hardened on the local market yesterday and very active conditions prevailed.

There was another increase in the spot price of the commodity when the market opened and at noon business was being done at 1½ cents above the price paid the day before. Later it dropped a quarter cent but by the close of operations had recovered.

The market closed steady at 23 cents buyers and 23½ cents sellers (spot), 23½ and 23½ (May-June), 24 and 24½ (July-September), 24½ and 24½ (October-December).

Further rises in the price are anticipated.

Shares are positively booming and scrip is hard to obtain.

London, April 30.

Addressing the annual general meeting of Labu (F.M.S.) Rubber Co., Ltd., this morning Mr. J. G. Hay declared that while no rate could be given on the question of releases under the rubber regulation scheme, which was a matter for the International Regulation Committee, he suggested that estimates on current figures would show that a reduction of 25 per cent. was necessary to bring production into a proper relationship with absorption.

Replying to questions Mr. Hay suggested that 7d. or 8d. would be a fair and equitable price for the raw material.

The scheme had been introduced to bring back prosperity to the industry and it was proposed so to do by regulating supply and expanding the market.

Agreement between each country on the quotas represented the satisfaction of all participants.

Safeguards against abuse of the scheme were provided by the moderation of their objects, consultation with manufacturers and taking steps for the expansion of consumption.

The success of the scheme did not rely on governmental regulations.

Sir George Maxwell in a special message to-day concerning the restriction agreement, said:

"It is a great achievement to have secured agreement among so many countries on so many details, and the skilful and tactful organizers of a scheme well designed to restore lasting prosperity to the industry must be congratulated."

Chau Fai, 49, foki of stall No. 179 Western Market, was charged before Mr. MacFadyen yesterday, with being the keeper of a common gaming house at the stall and possession of a small number of po pu lottery tickets. Defendant denied the first charge but admitted the possession. The plea was accepted by Det-Sergt. Gullid and a fine of $10 or fourteen days was imposed on the second charge. Similar charges were brought by Det-Sergt. Fowle against Chan Chiu, 42, a goldsmith, of No. 13 Lower Lascar Row. He failed to appear and forfeited his bail of $50.

Chan Kwong, 24, whose driving licence is under suspension, appeared before Mr. MacFadyen in the Central Police Court yesterday charged with obtaining four rolls of cloth from the Fai Kee shop, No. 10 Possession Street, by false pretences. Detective-Sergeant Goodwin said defendant had sent the cloth out of the Colony by a friend, but had agreed to pay a refund of $68.10 which was the value of the cloth. He was formerly employed by the Hing Kee Garage. The magistrate bound the defendant over in a personal bond of $50 for six months.

COLD STORAGE DISPUTE

Claim By Ice House Snack Counter

Before Mr. Justice Jacks at the Summary Court yesterday, Mr. David Blumenthal, trading as The Ice House Snack Counter, sued the Chuen Hing Cold Storage of 5 Titi Hong Lane, for $412.80 in respect of 14 boxes of strawberries and 19 boxes raspberries, which plaintiff alleged were damaged while stored with the plaintiff.

The figure of $412.80 represented, according to the plaintiff, the lowest price he would have got in the market for the damaged goods. Mr. R. F. Cole appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. J. B. Prentis for the defendants.

The plaintiff stated in evidence that a consignment of raspberries and strawberries arrived in the Colony in December and as he had no need for the fruit, he decided to have them stored with the defendants. Owing to the manner in which the storage was carried off, it was discovered later that the juice from many of the cartons had leaked out and the contents dried up and consequently spoiled.

Witness said that that was the first occasion in which he had done business with the Chuen Hing Cold Storage Company.

Cross-examined by Mr. Prentis, witness said that he did not give any particular instructions as to how the goods were to be stored. He assumed from the words "this side up" appearing in the boxes that they would be stored with the proper side up.

Witness answering another question admitted that the contents of some of the cartons in the damaged cases were unspoiled. The case was adjourned.

Y.M.C.A. SUMMER PROGRAMME
Summer Camps Probable

At a meeting of the Social and Recreative Committees of the European Y.M.C.A., which was presided over by Mr. J. L. Macpherson, it was decided to hold bathing picnics fortnightly throughout the summer months, with a moonlight bathing picnic once a month.

Bridge and whilst drives were to be arranged by the Social Committee, who will also arrange a tea dance (flannels) towards the end of the present month.

A suggestion that an open-air concert be held in the quadrangle, met with unanimous approval, and the project will in all probability take place some time next month or in July.

Inter-floor billiards and inter-club billiards will be resumed and it is hoped that with the No. 2 table replenished by a new covering and cushions, the billiards room will be made full use of.

A ladder tournament will take place almost immediately for squash enthusiasts in order to ascertain the merits of the players with a view to arranging inter-club games.

A suggestion that week-end camps be held, probably at Cheung Chau Island also met with unanimous approval, and the social committee will take every step to try and arrange one this season.

MR. ALFRED MORRIS

To Retire Next Month

Mr. Alfred Morris, the popular headmaster of King's College, is due to leave the Colony on retirement sometime next month.

Over 30 years of his life have been devoted to educational work. First as headmaster of the old Sai-Ying-Pun School and then of King's College. Hundreds of young men, mostly Chinese, have passed under his guidance and are now occupying positions of responsibility in every sphere of life in Hong Kong and China; and for over sixteen years he was engaged in the services of the charity body, the St. John Ambulance Association and Brigade, starting free nursing centres, stations and clinics both in Hong Kong and the New Territory, and giving invaluable assistance to the sick and poor.

Members of the Old Boys' Association of King's College and Sai-Ying-Pun School have recently decided at a meeting to organise a farewell party in honour of Mr. Morris, and a committee has already been elected to make the necessary arrangements.

MANILA OLYMPIC GAMES

CHINESE DELEGATION RECEIVE WARM WELCOME

Manila, May 8. Tremendous enthusiasm was shown and a large local section of the Chinese community turned out for the arrival of the Chinese Olympic delegation and gave them a veritable triumphal entry. At least 5,000 people jammed the streets to make a delighted parade through the Manila streets, after which the athletes inspected the stadium while the officials hastened to pay their respects to the Governor General and to the Mayor. School girls covered the arriving teams with bouquets while a Chinese boy-scout band furnished the music.

The delegation was officially greeted by both the Chinese Consul and by Miss Philipines, this year's carnival queen who is the Chinese belle. Doctor Wang officially expressed his delight at returning to the Philippines after an absence of seven years and made assurances of his heartiest cooperation to make the games a tremendous success.

The athletes appear to be in the pink of condition and apparently enjoyed their trip and are fully fit for the final grind. The delegation does not comment on the chances of victory in the various events but allows the impression that China is confident of winning the Soccer, in which event the stiffest opposition is expected to come from Java.

Mr. Lim Bong So, the tennis player from Singapore is expected to give the Japanese aces a hard fight. The Baseball team have worked out a newly completed diamond and expressed satisfaction at the lay-out, while officials attended conferences and drafted final schedules for tennis, the track, boxing and swimming. The Chinese showed a novel retort to Japan's much publicized staff of special cooks which accompanied the teams when the chefs and managers of the leading Manila Chinese restaurants gathered together and constructed a special kitchen in which the best typical food is being prepared. The Chinese restaurants in Manila are many and famous and the cooks are reputed to be unsurpassed. The entire Japanese delegation staged a strenuous work-out today but the Chinese teams are resting after their trip and expect some action to-morrow.

Manila is delighted at the spirit of their welcome, thus assuring a delightful time.—Reuter.

RICHARD TAUBER

Arrives At Elstree

Richard Tauber, world-famous tenor, arrived in London on Easter Monday evening, to commence work in his first British film. This will be directed at Elstree for British International Pictures by Paul Stein. Tauber's lifelong friend.

Titled "Blossom Time," it is a colourful romantic film with music, based on incidents from the life of Franz Schubert, who will be impersonated by Tauber himself.

Interviewed on arrival at Elstree, Herr Tauber expressed his great delight with the story selected for him by British International. "Paul Stein has been over to see me in Vienna," he said, "and has shown me the story. We have discussed it thoroughly and I have myself made several suggestions regarding the special music. Some of my own compositions will be introduced. This is not my first film, but it is my first English one and I am naturally excited about it."

Work commenced on "Blossom Time" at Elstree recently, but Herr Tauber was not called upon to act, because the scenes in which he appears have not yet been reached. Paul Stein was directing scenes for the early part of the film in which Paul Graetz, another very clever young German actor, is seen as an old music-master, with whose daughter Schubert fell in love. Tauber watched for awhile with evident amusement.

The scene was set in an old Viennese home of 1826, when the fireplaces were built like a kind of brick font in the centre of the room.

GERMAN MINE DISASTER

Eighty Workers Believed Dead

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, May 8, 4.30 a.m.)

Berlin, May 7. Eighty miners were trapped underground as the result of a fire breaking out suddenly on Monday in the Buggingen Potash mines mid-way between Freiburg in Breisgau and Basel, due to the collapse of a small pillar which in turn snapped the high tension power cable and the configuration took place. The majority of the workers reached safety soon after the alarm was sounded. It is hoped that the rescue squad will succeed in freeing a large percentage of those caught behind the blazing shafts in the passage way.

Freiburg, Breisgau. The eighty miners trapped in the collapsed potash mine of Buggingen have been abandoned to their fate as all means of coming to their aid has been cut off. To quench the roaring underground fire, all passage ways have been blocked up. Strong reasons exist for believing that the men have already perished as after some time no answer to telephone calls with the imprisoned miners was obtainable.—Transocean Kuo Min.

DEATH-ROLL NOW EIGHTY-SIX

Berlin, May 8. Eighty-six are now known to be dead in the mining disaster at Buggingen.—Reuter.

CANTON DAY BY DAY

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Canton, May 8. "National Humiliation Day" will be observed to-morrow at the Chunshan Memorial Hall, as on May 9, 1915 President Yuan Shih Kai accepted the Twenty-One Demands of the Okuma Cabinet which gave Japan a firm foothold in Shantung, Manchuria and Fukiien.

There will be no holiday, but amusement and entertainment for the day is cancelled. Slogans were issued to-day reminding the people of the danger confronting China at the moment. The history and nature of the Twenty-One Demands were described in a statement issued by the Kuomintang organs.

LENIENCY TO DEBTORS

Merchants who borrowed $250,000 in notes from Kwangtung Provincial Bank are able to repay so far only $500,000 although the time for repayment was due some time ago. The money was advanced last summer on security to firms which needed money badly to tide over their financial stringency.

The Bank does not press on repayment on the paper money, although when the notes were advanced they were accepted at face value.

TAX ON FOREIGN FIRMS

The Provincial Department of Finance, according to the vernacular press, is compiling statistics of the volume of business done by foreign firms as a prelude to levying on them a business tax. Investigation will be completed by the end of the month, when in all probability the collection of the tax will begin.

Shameless firms have not yet received official notification to pay this tax, but it seems that the provincial authorities will lose no time in putting the tax into effect.

"QUEEN CHRISTINA"

Coming To Queen's And Alhambra

A new motion picture with Greta Garbo is automatically an event: she has been acclaimed by many as the leading actress of the screen, and her vehicles are so carefully spaced that it always seems an extremely long time since the last one. When a Garbo film is directed by Rouben Mamoulian, formerly of the Theatre Guild, the event seems of double importance. And when the picture is one whose dialogue has been composed by S. N. Behrman, author of last year's stage success, "Biography," then the event achieves a distinction almost without precedent. This picture is "Queen Christina," which comes for simultaneous showings at the Queen's and Alhambra Theatres on Saturday.

"Queen Christina" is remarkable in that it is a role chosen by Miss Garbo herself. The character of this brilliant, independent and eccentric regent of the middle seventeenth century is one that has always attracted the enigmatic actress, as much because she was of the same race as because her intelligence and passion for freedom were wholly modern in their quality. And Sweden at that period was an aggressive military power whose martial mania Christina insisted on suppressing. Miss Garbo was interested too in conveying this pacifistic conviction of the queen.

Accordingly, when the actress took one of her rare excursions home last spring, she promptly proceeded to do some of the research and investigation which she had promised Rouben Mamoulian she would do. She consulted biographies and museum records and costume plates, and when she returned to Hollywood with much of this material in her trunk, she was more eager than ever to attempt an incarnation of the Queen who preferred the cultivation of artists and sciences to the thankless and ruthless business of warring a sceptre.

Few choices for the composer of dialogue could have been so fortunate as that of the brilliant S. N. Behrman. This distinguished playwright has been responsible for some of the wittiest comedies produced in the New York Theatre for the last seven or eight years. And the incisive penetrating statements characteristic of Christina could scarcely have been penned by a more skillful hand.

LAUGHTON PLAYS MACBETH

Went Pale at His Own Realism

Charles Laughton has achieved his most momentous part in this play because it has presented to him more difficulties than and other role he has ever played. He succeeds in making Macbeth, even though rather resembling a tubby, partly shorn Henry VIII, truly convincing.

He had only rehearsed this part for three weeks, and has always disliked speaking in verse. Yet he has overcome all these difficulties, and last night created a new Macbeth that is no doubt as much like the Macbeth Shakespeare intended as a Hottentot.

Temperament

But solely by his passionate living of the part Laughton justifies this new stumpy, cold sweat-covered Scottish king. When he has murdered Duncan and his hands are dripping with stage gore which he smears on his face, Charles Laughton really looks as though he is going to be sick.

The red paint on his hands became gore just by the way he held his fingers. This is acting. So wrapped up was he in his part that only his wife Elsa Lancaster dared approach his dressing-room. If Charles Laughton was never temperamental before, he certainly was off stage, so I understand.

Macbeth is to be his last part in Vic-Wells repertory for some time and he has taken it seriously as his greatest, which it is.

the West River, which are among the most thriving in Kwangtung. The general will return to his headquarters in Shaokwan early June. He hopes to revive the industry of those towns, especially the silk industry in Yung Kee and Shun Tak.

THE EXCHANGE MARKET

MESSRS. ROZA BROS. REPORT

Silver prices advanced in London yesterday. Ready delivery by 5/16 to 19 1/16 and Forward 1/4 to 19 1/16. American operated on both sides of the market but on balance was rather a buyer, absorbing Indian sales. The tone after prices were fixed looked steady with some anticipation of American support. The price in New York was also higher at 43.90 with a firm tone and a good buying inquiry for spot.

The cross-rate New York on London opened at 5.112 and closed at 5.101.

Market

The tone here opened somewhat on the easy side and was so maintained throughout the morning, but towards closing time buyers appeared to have lost interest, reacting possibly to the news from America indicating further conversations as to legislation on Silver.

Sterling

Opening rates in the Inter-Bank market were sellers 1/5 1/16, buyers 1/5 1/16, but reflecting the easier tone in Shanghai, buyers' ideas came down to 1/5 1/16 for May but no reported business was arranged at the rate except for June delivery followed by July at the same rate, at 1/5 1/32 June and at 1/5 for June. The last rate was wanted for a long interval but was not on offer. Later buyers offered 1/5, but only for May with sellers at that rate for June. At 1 p.m. the market closed with sellers at 1/4 31/32 May, 1/5 June, buyers bidding 1/5 for May and 1/5 1/32 June.

U.S. Dollars

Dollars were on offer at 36 1/2 with buyers at 36 1/2. The last rate was reported to have been done, the market subsequently receding to 36 5/16 and 36 3/16 business done, the last rate being accepted for June also. Closing rates were, sellers 36 1/2 for May, 36 3/16 June but 36 1/2 might have been obtained for that month, buyers at 36 3/16 for May.

Shanghai Market
Opening rates were on a slightly lower level, sellers offering 1/3 5/16 and buyers at 1/3 7/16. Sellers later receded to 1/3 1/16 and 1/3 3/16 with possible buyers at 1/3 5/16. Dollars were offered at 32 1/2 with buyers at 32 1/2 but an easier feeling prevailed bringing the rate to 32 5/16 sellers and 32 7/16 buyers.

BERLIN SHARE MARKET

More Optimistic Tone

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, May 7.
Mainly owing to the statement about the progress of the transfer conference made by President Leon Fraser, reported by Trans-ocean on Sunday, the share-market was much more optimistic in tone, many dealers replenishing stocks and standard of securities so that share prices underwent an improvement all along the line. Many sections in the fixed interest securities market were likewise much firmer.

Call Money 4 to 4 1/4. Young Loan weakened 1/2 to 90 1/2. Reichsbank rose 1/2 to 148 1/2. Dye Trusts advanced 1/2 to 129 1/2. Salzfutur Potash jumped 2 1/2 to 140. German Steel Trusts sprang 2 to 41 1/2. German Mineral Oils 1/2 firmer to 111 1/2. Siemenshalske 1/2 better to 132 1/2. Bernberg Rayon soared 4 to 67. Continental Rubber upshot 4 1/2 to 144 1/2. Norddeutscher Lloyd rose 4 1/2 to 28 1/2. Hapag improved 1/2 to 21 1/2. Transocean Kuo Min.
